"The image of change is one of youth . . . the old must be pliable enough to yield."

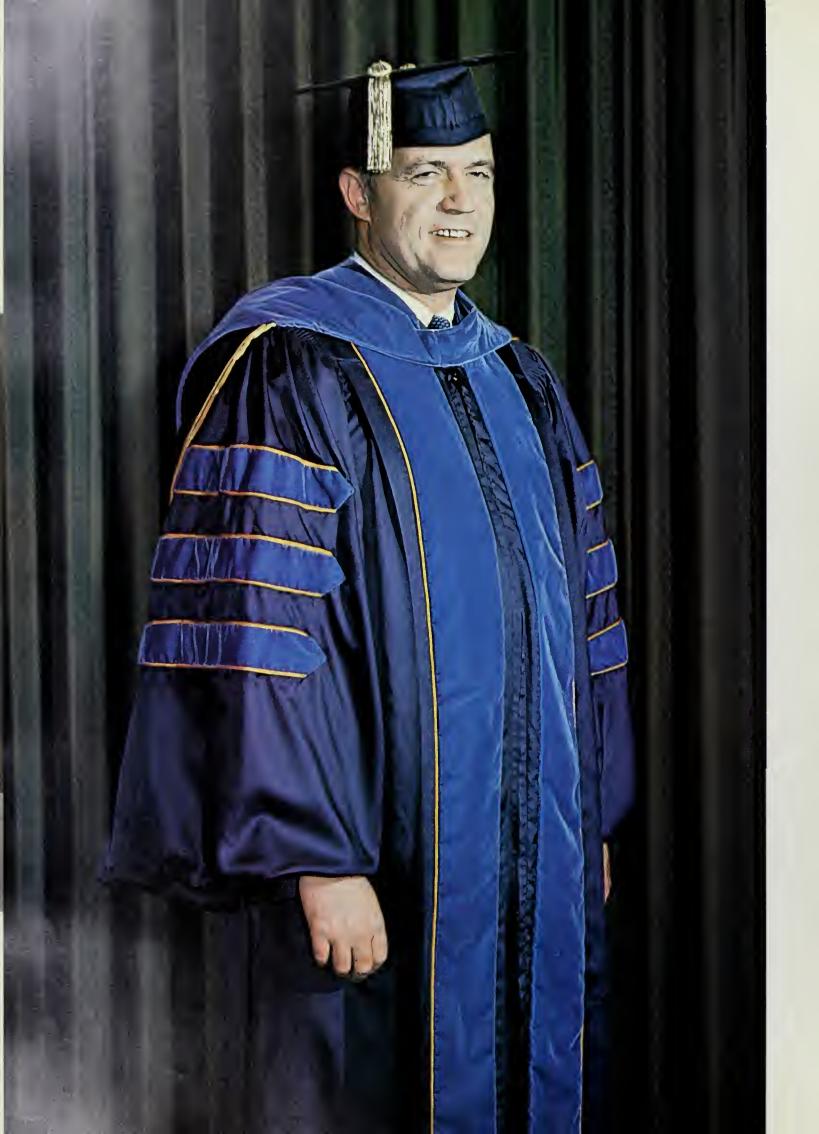

The University is caught up in change, and evolution has its ups and downs. The upheaval today is a very real revolution. It won't just subside into the past. The role of the Establishment in the University, in business, and in industry must be one of activity more responsive to the problems of young people. We are experiencing vast reforms in the areas of racial attitudes, religion, and morality. We must work to guide the causes of the revolt.

On the university level we are seeing a change in curricula and a breakdown in orthodoxy. Teaching has been too much stereotyped; graduate work has been more like an apprenticeship. This must be modified or we shall be ever closed to change. We must come to stress the fundamental principles rather than the orthodoxy. The University has grown too reminiscent of old men. It must break from the static mold.

Franklin D. Murphy

Chancellor of UCLA 1960-1968

(on the involvement of the University in society.) "There's a limit to what you can do in this regard." The university may not be large enough in terms of people and resources to become a consulting firm for the community and still provide a sound educational program. "Universities have got to be welldisciplined in terms of the limits of what they can do about solving society's problems.... If they don't, they won't do their primary mission well, which is taking young people and motivating them, enthusing them and building their intellectual capacity," because professors will not have enough time to spend in the classroom.

Charles Young, Chancellor of UCLA inaugurated May 23, 1969

Charles Hitch, President of the University inaugurated May 23, 1968

50 years the administrator

Dr. Chorles E. Yaung is 39 years old. He has a wife ond two children. He hos studied and taught at a variety of institutions of higher learning. His forehead wrinkles when he talks and he rubs his face to find the right words. He heads one of the largest—and mast complex—of this country's universities. He never stands still.

"There have been some changes (between the administrations of Chancellors Murphy and Young). Conditions have changed and they have changed perhaps more than an outsider or even someone who is a casual observer would recognize. The tempo of social change has increased very rapidly in the last year, more rapidly in the last year than in the five preceding it, and I think more rapid in those five than in the twenty-five preceding that. We're in a situation at the present time in which the pace is extremely fast. There has been a polarization which has developed over the last few years between those who are on the active side and those who are more in the area of the status quo. There has been greater tension develop between the university, which is by and large an institution of doers, and the community at large which tends to be more or less concerned with the maintenance of the status quo, especially the power structure within certain parts of the community. We have a faster moving pace. We have greater tension. We have a sharper focus of the problems of the minority community. We have increasing financial difficulties brought about by the level of state appropriations and the cutback in growth of the federal contributions to higher education, bringing about perhaps a bigger need for private support. And all of this change is occurring at a time, as I said, when things are happening within the university which make it perhaps more difficult for us to obtain the kind of support, moral or financial, that we are trying to achieve in the community.

I doubt that there will be any general trend in (the direction of choosing young men as chief administrators in our universities). I think we are apt to see people selected to head universities who have had more administrative experience than one might have expected in the past, but I think that they will have had both administrative experience and be fairly well established members of the faculty . . . At one point in time you're going to find one set of conditions and criteria to be more important and others at another. When I use the word administration I'm not thinking in terms of handling the business affairs of the university better. I am thinking of administration in the broad sense, which I think is very creative business: seeing to it that issues are identified, that potential is recognized, that the means of achieving potential are obtained and that there is follow-through on the achieving of the goal.

I view the increasing focus of the university on the minority as an absolute necessity. Failure to focus attention on these areas would in my view be an immorality of the greatest consequence. Furthermore it would be operational insanity. The solutions of the problems we're confronting in the urban situation and especially the ethnic-related problems have to be the number one item on the priority list of this society, and those solutions, in my view, cannot be found without the full cooperation and participation of higher education, especially the major universities. They may not be found even with that participation, but it's absolutely certain that the participation of universities-and universities like this one-is an absolute necessity to their solution.

I don't feel that the relationship between the administration, the faculty, and the students, or my relationship with student groups is one of a group of pressures that I have to worry about. Recognizing that there still need to be a lot of improvements, there are mechanisms of one kind or another around here which enable people to raise the questions that are of concern to them, to see to it that someone pays attention to them, and for us to get together and talk about problems and work out solutions. I think a great deal of improvement is still required in this regard but I see us by and large as cooperating to accomplish mutually desired goals . . . All the administration can do (in regard to student-faculty relations) is to facilitate communication between students who are trying to find ways to bring about change and the members of the faculty, whether organized into departments or centers or Academic Senate committees, who have to be involved if the change is going to be brought about.

dr. charles young

I think (the unionization of university faculty) is a very great disaster. In the years to come faculty will decry the fact that this has occured. The faculty member of the university or college has been given very special treatment in our society, for good and sound reason: the university has been the place from which much of what we refer to as progress has sprung. It is a place which has to be open and free. The people who work there have to have some special considerations if that's going to continue; these are privileges that they've been given, in exchange for their contributions to society and their willingness to give up some things that those who don't have the privileges have. It is not going to be possible for faculties to be treated as professionals with special consideration and all the benefits that that includes and to be treated like working men whole only concerns are their own economic betterment and who are prepared to sacrifice their students and the university to obtain those ends . . . The university is self-policing. There are aspects of the professional guild that are very similar to some of the basic principles in trade unionism, and in a way, tenure is like the concept of seniority. What has been happening at least at this university over the past few years is, in my view, a weakening of the concept of tenure as a general principle ... As long as higher education is expanding at the rate it is now, so that the need for new people is so great, I don't think tenure, from a practical point of view, is a very meaningful concept. Psychologically it's very important; it is mentally tied up with academic freedom.

As I see what has been happening, the one segment of the university community which has not been very heavily involved in the past-that is the student segment-is now beginning to have some voice in the management of the enterprise. The faculty has always had (a voice), the administration has played its role, the community has had its voice. The students have been viewed as what was focused upon and not as having much by way of input to contribute. Now they are beginning to share in the degree to which they participate, along with the other elements. I don't think any one (group within the university or the community) is going to have a dominant role (in directing the future course of this institution). The role of the administration is to pull the groups together, to balance the various claims. to see to it that what is done is not just an adding up of the pluses and minuses, but to pull everyone into the building of a coherent institution, to see that the proper questions have been raised and that the answers are clear and understood."

vice-chancellor university relations and public programs

"A number of individuals, departments and organizational units are contributing to urban action programs. My hope is to help in coardinating them -get the most out af people and funding and eliminating waste time, while stimulating and channeling." With this end in mind Chancellor Charles Young appainted former director of the African Studies Center and professor of law, Paul O. Proehl, to the new position of Vice Chancellor–University Relations and Public Pragrams.

"The legislature sees the University of California as a sort of monolith, symbolized by the Berkeley state-wide administration and typified very largely in terms of student-faculty and campus situations by what goes on at Berkeley-Berkeley catches cold and they wait for us to sneeze. While we're all a part of one university and one institution, the fact is that we have somewhat different needs and somewhat different programs that entitle us to some differentiation, particularly with respect to the problems of campus unrest . . . When the public becomes vindictive vis a vis the university we believe that it's important that the legislators have the information not just as to what goes on at Berkeley but as to what goes on at UCLA and other campuses . . . Part of the problem of the university's image in Sacramento is the lack of frank communication (with the legislators). We are standing at arms length and we are both working from misconceptions ... The legislature should see the university as a pluralistic organization which has many parts and many needs and many different responses to educational needs and urban, state, and national problems. This differentiation can enhance the appreciation; you don't havejust a factory that's turning out certain types of models. We can't forget the legislator's role as a representative of the public which may not understand what higher education is all about.

Ultimately the preservation, the perpetuation, and the enlargement of knowledge make certain demands on society in terms of funding of institutional arrangements, such as state universities, of recognizing the necessity of freedom of the academic community, which must be maintained if the mission of the university is to be accomplished. The mode by which the mission is realized changes; the mission itself may change; it's being changed to some extent by the demands being made upon it by the urban crisis. But the basic ultimate objective-truth-is not affected unless the thing is politicized. If that is politicized, the demands made by the urban community can bejust as destructive to the mission of the university as impositions of restraints and restrictions by the legislature. You get all caught up in response to the community at the university level of performing "peace corps" work which can fulfill certain felt needs of the individual to work with his hands and improve the living conditions of ghetto or barrio people. This may be very satisfying to the individuals involved, but it's questionable in my mind whether it is the best allocation of resources when vou're using university people - students or faculty - who should be operating at a higher level, trying to find out how you motivate people in the barrio or the ghetto to do these things for themselves or how you tackle city hall to get them done through government ... Anything that diverts the university from its primary mission of perpetuating knowledge or enlarging it (in both a quantitative and in a qualitative sense, and with respect to the people who are privy to knowledge, not just an educated elite but a broad mass of people) from whatever direction it comes; the legislature, the public, even students, in terms of limiting the freedom of inquiry, or from extraordinary demands made upon it that divert it from its primary purpose is harmful in the long run."

Dr. Wilson has done extensive research in the development of business organizations and management science techniques. He has done postdoctorate work at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in the behavioral sciences on a Ford Faculty Fellowship and he has been an administrative fellow at UCLA under the American Council on Education where he studied university administration and the appropriateness of computer techniques and other planning tools for program development and planning. His research includes a book, Organizational Decision Making, (Prentice Hall, 1967) and numerous articles dealing with organizational decision making, computer simulation, and managerial economics. Currently he has an appointment in the Graduate School of Education where he is pursuing the opplication of management science techniques in educational organizations.

In addition to research and teaching, Dr. Wilson has been active in community affairs. He served on numerous boards, including a county-wide organization that was responsible for the development of the poverty programs in Upstate New York. In 1965 he was voted Outstanding Young Man of the Yeor by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Binghamton, New York.

"The university has been slow to develop black administrators in the same way that it has been slow in developing black faculty . . . there's been an ambivalence about the relation between social and professional ends ... We cannot consistently argue that we are doing all that we can because we have searched for qualified people when as intelligent men and men of good will we know that qualified people aren't born as such but developed. We have to use some of our resources and energy to develop people to meet needs that currently exist. There are people from the smaller communities (black, brown, etc.) who have something to contribute to university life. They may not have the traditional credentials and outlook: our problem is to define ways and avenues to give due recognition to the kind of expertise such people bring to the university.

"Our goals in the long run and our ability to choose them depend on our success in serving and achieving some very immediate ones. Most human systems tend to grow in an imbalanced way. It is a mistake to start out with something as complex as the community and assume that we must do things the "best" way. We do not have such know-how. We take action and learn from that . . . There's a kind of dynamics involved in getting out into the community and doing things which will ultimately give us some insight into what would be the best way to become involved for the university.

"If we expect integration to be a reality in this country, for the time being we might have to recognize the importance of differences. We have to recognize that it's important that black people have a need to be black. It's important that they come into an integrated society feeling very strongly that there are positive sides to being black. They can make a real contribution to an integrated society, and this is the only way an integrated society is going to reflect some of the realities and needs of the black people . . . An integrated society reflects a sharing of values." "There is a meeting ground between innovations and programs in teaching, research and action which can be related to the new needs of the urban scene . . . I'm concerned about new programs which tend to address the needs of the community and encourage more creative efforts toward making us effective in serving the urban community.

"Any time a black administrator these days moves into the hierarchy of the university there are certain assumptions made about who he is and what he does . . . As a black man I feel very committed to get the university to respond to the community, particularly to the smaller communities: the brown and the black . . . My job is not to interpret the black community to the administration but rather-given my experience in the community-to help the administration grow and expand to meet some of the needs as expressed by the black community . . . I believe in what I am doing as an administrator; I act and think along the lines expressed here not because someone assigned me the role but because this is the only kind of administrator I want to be.

gold shield conference

It may come as a surprise to many students that the UCLA Alumni Association is not entirely composed of old cigarchewing millionaires who visit campus once a year to show their grandchildren a memorial plaque commemorating a large tax deductible donation to the university. In fact this is an exception. The the alumni of UCLA are definitely not interested in running the university by its purse-strings. One of the most obvious concerns of a group of fifty prominent alumna and alumni who met at the Arrowhead Conference Grounds last January was serving the University.

The University, A Family Affair, the theme of the conference, raised the question of the channels the alumni could use in lending their resources for the good of their alma mater, (evidently the most satisfying relationship they desire). Dissatisfied with the relative drift of the Alumni Association to fund-raising, the majority of these alumni are seeking to make their Association an effective channel for the varied services they can volunteer. Claiming to be members of the university family they want an association responsible to the alumni, rather than the administration, an association they can use as a means of communication with the community and the administration through their various support groups.

As one of the moderators, (Dr. Warren Schmidt of GBA) pointed out, this representative group of alumni are frustrated in the performance of its desires by the communications problems of the current Alumni Association structure and by a feeling that their services and donations, formerly legal tender for university recognition are no longer valid. However, how much and to whom, can these active alumni relate? These people, in listening to administrators and alumni association staff and in trading ideas among themselves, relate to a vague ideal many students and members of the present university community of today cannot even conceive. They are attached to "UCLA" or to the idea of the "university" a thing that had such a reasonable size even fifteen years ago that people could feel some sense of identity with it. Whether a well-planned (or even creative) program of social activities and use of volunteer services can once again establish a sense of belonging to UCLA for the alumni is the issue that must be dealt with before we can even start speaking of a University "family." Whether a revamped Alumni Association can channel the good-will and purposefulness of these alumni, and eventually make itself a group to deal with on campus is another struggle by one of many traditional campus institutions to reaffirm its right to belong to the rapidly-changing university community.

brain research institute

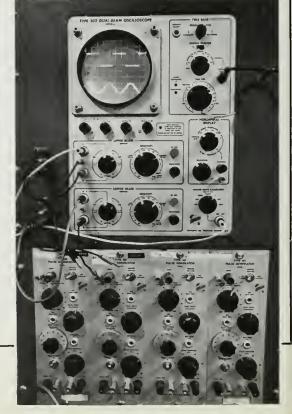

In the heart of the huge south campus science complex lies one of the foremost brain research centers of the world. The UCLA Brain Research Institute, founded in the early 1950's under the guidance of Dr. H. W. Magoun, is dedicated to research of the brain and subsequent educational and informational services. Perhaps no other research institute at UCLA better demonstrates the high level of research that has made UCLA, in its 50-year history, the home of many prominent research scientists.

The emphasis of the BRI, directed by Dr. John D. French, has been one of integration, correlation, and dissemination of research into all related areas of a given problem or project. Current members of this Institute represent 14 different departments from both the School of Medicine and the College of Letters and Science, and investigators from many other departments join in active collaborative research. Members of the various departments have been encouraged to develop closer relationships, thus broadening the scope of investigative activities and extending the effectiveness of their educational efforts. Fifty to sixty foreign scholars, representing as many as 28 different countries, join BRI programs each year, thus reemphasizing the attitude of broadly structured participation, responding to a growing feeling that brain research today is an international mission.

All members of the BRI must be members of some department at UCLA. All academic members of the Institute have teaching responsibilities to undergraduate, graduate, and medical students. Members holding professional research appointments must also have departmental appointments, though their teaching responsibilities are less formalized. All members of the Institute devote their main research efforts to programs advancing knowledge of the function and structure of the brain. They carry all major responsibility in the preceptoral education of graduate students and post doctoral fellows for careers in brain research.

The BRI at UCLA is not the only research center of its kind, but it ranks with the major centers devoted to basic research on the nervous system in the world. The research activities of the Institute fall into two major categories: Independent project research is funded by grants assigned to individual members of the Institute. Collaborative research is upported by program grants assigned to the BRI or groups of investigators from different departments. Both project and program research are involved in a number of broadly interdisciplinary activities.

Most research experiments are conducted on animals and are designed to learn how the environment effects the brain and how the brain works to control behavior. Although there is difficulty in extrapolating from animals to men, the biologist often sees his research animal as a model for man, and research is geared for eventual application to humans. The Institute has taken a leading role in identifying and equating specific electrical and chemical brain functions with actual behavior in individual creatures. All states of being are, in theory, susceptible to analysis in terms of brain activity.

The training of investigators for independent careers in research is stressed at the BRI. Students work within a curriculum which emphasizes an interdisciplinary science education, and a combination of departmental and interdisciplinary experience which characterizes the research activities of the Institute. Educational activities are organized departmentally and all graduate degrees are awarded by departments, but generous interdepartmental experience is provided. In the academic year of 1967-68, the Institute contributed to the education of 133 graduate students.

The demanding requirements of research activity create an intensive need for resources of unusual sophistication and magnitude at the BRI. Operational support draws heavily on government sources, but recent restrictions on these funds have limited vital Institute activities in critical areas. The Institute is currently in need of attracting greater support from private individuals, institutions, foundations, and associations.

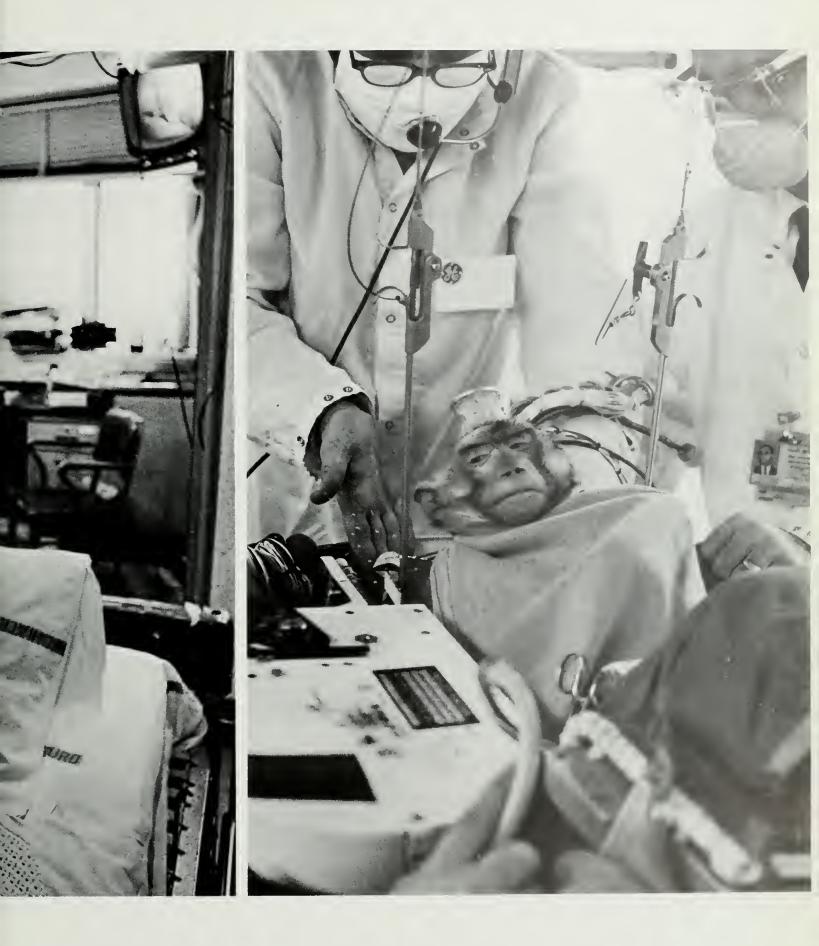

The procurement and care of research animals is of major concern and expense to the Institute. An enormous range of animals must be maintained in highly specialized facilities which can sustain environments condusive to normal healthy behavior. Investigators must further be supplied with complex and sophisticated equipment. The BRI has taken a leading role in the employment of computers for biological research and in the amplification of both computer and communication's engineering in brain research and medicine.

Research activities at the BRI have led to significant developments in a wide range of areas involving the brain. Much work has been recently performed in the study and treatment of patients with temporal epilepsy and a great deal has been learned about this condition. In another BRI program, the Institute will study brain functions in astronaut monkeys orbiting the earth for 30 days, to learn how weightlessness and other space environments will influence man in longer flights. Still another study has demonstrated how the brain induces sleep and wakefulness and what happens to it when anesthetics are given. Patient monitoring techniques employing telemetry are of current interest at the BRI. Under study conditions patients are monitored at home, as they perform normal daily activities, by the use of sensor devices and a small telemetry unit which transmits brain activity information to the home telephone which in turn relays the signal to computers and paper recorders at the UCLA Medical Center. Such telemetry and computer methods may. in the future, help to alleviate the current overcrowding in hospital facilities by allowing patients to be treated through neighborhood monitoring centers. A greater access to medical expertise is thus brought out into the community.

Student support of homecoming activities had been dwindling, so the tradition of Bruin Week began this year to provide a spirit week before the USC football game. Many of the activities were similar to those of past homecomings, such as lawn displays between the gyms-more or less non-floating floats, a barbeque and street dance, and of course, a queen.

Miss Carolyn Webb was crowned Miss UCLA at the Canned Heat concert in Pauley Pavilion, and reigned over the festivities of the week. Unfortunately, even the rally and bonfire with Tommy Prothro wasn't enough to pull an upset over SC, and defeat dimmed the glory of the other events of the week.

Bruin Week really proved to be no different than past homecoming weeks, and the activities did not seem to draw any new converts to school spirit.

monte carlo nite

You reserve the Grand Ballroom for the evening. You fill it with groovy things to hear and eat and do.

You get live sounds from Steve Gilette, Dobie Gray, the Sunshine Company.

People give you $400 worth of prizes.

You get girls in fishnet stockings and lace garters – and you teach them to play games.

You get dice and cards and green felt tables – and dealers' plastic visors to make things look authentic. You're working for a good cause: all profits to Uni-Camp.

And then it rains. . .

and only half the guests come to your party.

mardi gras

Mardi Gras is a kind of UCLA week-end fair that happens after lent is over, this year on April 25th and 26th. It is also the main money-raising activity for uni-camp. It attracts thousands from all over the city with its games, rides, shows . . , and pop corn. Whether because of the entertainment it provides or because of its philanthropic purpose, it is one of the last successful traditional campus activities.

exceptional children's tutorial project

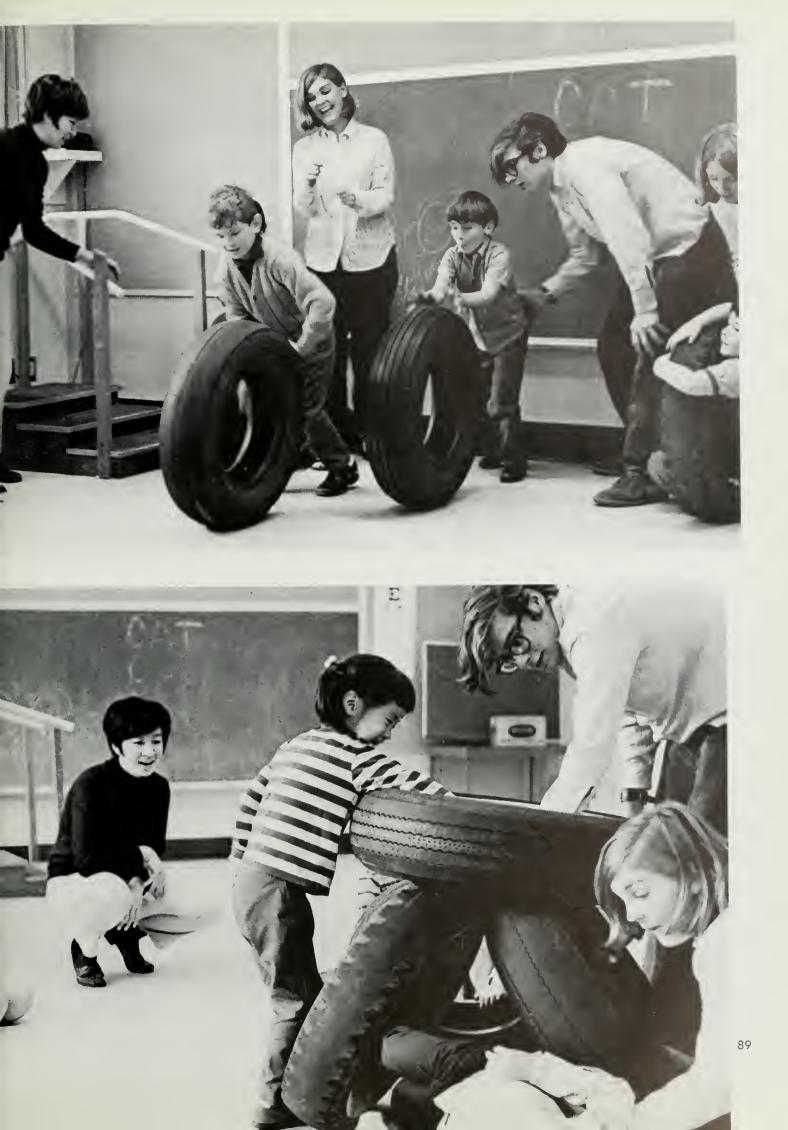

Exceptional Tutorial works with the mentally retarded or emotionally disturbed child who needs a little extra help to learn.

A class in creative movement develops muscular and motor coordination and teaches a child to recognize his own body. Creative arts help a child to learn about color and form and self-expression.

Every year UCLAmigos go to Mexico and build washrooms—at least that's what people seem to think.

Since 1963, in yearly vacation-time treks south of the border, UCLA students have constructed facilities for educations and health care in Mexican communities. —We gave time and strong backs and eager hands: we try, and that's where understanding begins.

We go to Mexico to build those bonds that will be sustained long after the buildings are gone. We go to learn and to teach—to give and to gain from that giving a feeling for people in some ways different from ourselves. —We go in expression of man's innate relationship to all men; to give a viable reality to the word friend.

What happens when uni-compers come back to the city? Everybody knows about camps—and those glorious mountains—but the city you left is still the same when you come home. It's hard to remember the love and concern of new-found friends from those far-oway mountains.

Keep in touch — that's everybody's promise. So you write letters and visit the campus—and go to a real college football game. But then you get caught up in your own life. You don't forget—but there just isn't always enough time to let people know you remember.

associated students speakers program

Eldridge Cleaver didn't just happen to walk into Pauley Pavilion last fall as the thousands of UCLA streamed into the large structure. He was among the first of more than thirty speakers of international and local importance who came to to address the students of UCLA under the auspices of the Associated Students Speakers Program, a student (incidental fee)-funded program designed to allow the students of UCLA to experience those personalities' words and ideas first-hand. In addition to the wide variety of speakers from the international scene, the noon programs saw a variety of opinions and solutions proposed to solve the urban crisis in the Chancellor's lecture series on crisis and change. Three of the candidates for mayor of Los Angeles also mode lunchtime appearances. According to ASSP chairman Rich Marks and adviser Alexander White, this is one of the most successful non-athletic programs on campus drawing approximately 40,000 students over an eight-month period.

project india

A girl with red pigtails in a sun dress holds hands with a girl with black pigtails in a "sari". It is the custom in India for young women who are friends to hold hands, and these two are indeed friends.

An Indian girl giggles and spreads a dab of red paste-like substance on the forehead of an American tall blond boy, then pats rice into the paste. She ties a thread bracelet around his wrist. In India a girl puts the mark on the forehead and bracelet on the wrist of her brother or one who is like a brother to her, to show her affection on the day of "rakhi".

The students comprising Project India 1968 left in early July to spend 10 weeks in India with the self-determined challenge to understand another culture, to build a frame of reference in which to view this Eastern country, and to share their own culture and themselves with their Indian counterparts – college students. The seven American students who formed the Project India team studied India and communication processes with other UCLA and UC Riverside students who had applied for the project, for six Saturdays during the last spring.

They spent the summer living on or near Indian colleges, all over the country.

They met the student leaders, introduced themselves to student bodies in large assemblies and then broke into discussion groups in available classrooms, participated in seminars and went into homes of newly made friends for tea or dinner. They went shopping and sightseeing and on picnics with Indian students. And everywhere they talked – about their homes, their college, unrest at Columbia, the death of Martin Luther King, Jr., war, racism and Black Power and poverty. They found they shared similar concerns about their futures and a troubled world tomorrow, set in strikingly different, and often subtly similar, environments, where the implication of events is sometimes so very different. They came up against Indian misunderstandings of things American, and against their own American biases, and felt anew every day the need for communication, in which they were deeply involved.

Marsha MaGaugh, Project India 1968

It hit me at first as a myriad of sensations: hot curry, women in saris, the sound of a strange language, ox driven carts in the street, and, of course, the oppressive humidity. Something important and compeling had brought us clear across the world and somewhere within this country of rice paddies and tea plantations was hidden a common denominator we would uncover which would allow us to break through, to reveal the concerns, frustrations and aspirations of these people and enable us to impart something of ourselves to them. It's difficult now to recall first impressions. The difficulty arises out of the contribution Ceylon imparted to me. . . . Ananda is no longer just a Ceylonese dressed in white slacks with a white shirt; he is a boy I know to be a sensitive, questioning, astute individual. Neither is Nim just a reserved Ceylonese girl anymore; she is a gentle girl whose family, although quite cosmopolitan, prefers eating with their hands, a girl who expresses herself quite effectively in poetry. She is concerned that the boy she will probably marry may immigrate to England since as a doctor it may be difficult for him to get employment in Ceylon. Not only is she concerned because her parents, whom she admires and respects, disapprove, but she is also aprehensive of having to leave the country she is so familiar with and so fond of.

Having transcended the peculiarties which initially identified us as different, I am now left with an overriding impression of the similiarities between my friends in Ceylon and my friends at home.

Project Ceylon was a pilot project sponsored by the University Religious Conference and the State Department modeled after Project India.

Anyone who read the UCLA football pressbook in September could not help being somewhat optimistic about the probable fate of the 1968 Bruin football team. After all, maybe Gary Beban was gone, but the coach who had nurtured him to greatness was still here, boasting a 24-5-2 won-lost record in his three years at UCLA. And if UCLA was losing 18 lettermen, including All-Americans Beban and linebacker Don Manning, UCLA fans relied on their memories of a 1965-66 season in which Prothro won the Rose Bowl with a sophomore quarterback. Before the beginning of classes things were fine; the Bruins rolled over hapless Pitt by a 63-7 margin drawing a host of superlative comments from many sources and a good mention in the polls. The Bruins just seemed unstoppable that warm summer evening as they scored a dive from the five yard line that put them ahead to stay culminating their first drive. Luck and those all-important breaks also seemed to smile on the Bruins as Floyd Reese blocked a field goal attempt by Pitt on the UCLA 24 and the Bruins once again had the ball.

Bill Bolden showed his stuff early with a 53 yard pass to Ron Copeland, and after having possession of the ball only twice the Bruins led 14-6. After the lone Pitt score the Bruins went on a rampage but soon it was without their first-string quarterback Bill Bolden who slipped and injured his shoulder while running a sweep around right end that set up the third UCLA touchdown. His substitute, Jim Nader. threw for the touchdown to Mike Garratt. Jim Nader started his stint with a succession of passes that netted a UCLA touchdown and a 28-0 lead at the half. Hardly anyone noticed the loss of the first string guarterback during the second half as UCLA's Mike Garrett, Ron Copeland, Gwen Cooper, Bob Manning and even the defensive backs got into the scoring statistics, leaving the Bruins on top of a lopsided score, 63-7.

However, the Bruins' troubles were to start with the next game, the start of what Bruin fans expected would be their second trip to the roses in four years of Tommy Prothro's coaching. Conference foe Washington State promised to be a push-over, or at least, dazed by the scoring spectacle of the previous week, the sports-writers tabbed the Bruins as solid 24-point favorites. However, besides an impressive running display by sophomore back Mickey Cureton and pass interceptions by Marc Gustafson and Vince Bischof, the Uclans put on a show that didn't spell Rose Bowl as they stommered to a 31-21 victory over Washington State. Greg Jones showed the strength and form that he was to carry throughout the season as he amassed a total of 51 yards in eight carries in his makeshift role as quarterback sub to Jim Nader. Hisr eplacement at tailback, Mickey Cureton, showed his dazzling running style in 15 carries which netted him 106 yards. And so the first Monday issue of the Daily Bruin was able to carry a sports page covered with the glories of a winning football team, surprisingly rated fourth in the national polls.

After the Washington State game, Bruin assistant coach Lew Stueck was quoted as saying, "If we can't get up for Syracuse, we're in trouble." To UCLA fans listening on the radio to the voice of a freezing Fred Hessler, it seemed that the Bruins were sufficiently pepped up for the game with the team that had beaten the highlyrated Bruins lost year in their season finale. On a muddy field in a cold rainstorm the Bruin ran into what was according to Coach Tommy Prothro "the best Syracuse team we've ever faced." The Bruins were ill-equipped to handle the strong running attack of the Orangemen during the first half as the opponents from New York ran up two field goals and a touchdown, leaving the wet field with a 13-0 lead. However, in true comeback style the Bruins woke up in the fourth quarter with Greg Jones finally getting over the line for a score with little more than eight minutes to play in the gome. Bruin fans from way back remember what a difference a Prothro inspired on-side kick did to USC in 1965 and in the Rose Bowl in 1966. But this time the onside kick didn't work, Syracuse took it on the Bruin 47, and ran through untouched for six more points. The Bruins took a dive in the ratings as a result, gaining only 56 yards rushing, 34 of them by Mickey Cureton. Daily Bruin Sports Editor Shelley Presser quoted a philosophical Jim Nader after the game as saying, "It's hard to lose any game, but it helps that it's not in conference. We're a young team and we realized that we have a lot to work for; I think we'll come back."

Back under sunny California skies, the Bruins came back to host the thirdrated Penn State Cougars at the Coliseum, but still without the full-time services of Bill Bolden who saw Penn State's awesome defense only three times as the huge white-suited Cougars beat the Bruins 21-6. Despite the big defensive rush and the Penn State interceptions and blocked kicks, Greg Jones salvaged UCLA's honor, picking up 85 yards on 17 tries, just two yards short of Penn State All-American Charlie Pittman's game total of 87 yards (in 21 carries). The UCLA defense showed some sparkle with linebacker Mike Ballou getting credit for 14 tackles, and tackles Larry Agajanian and Floyd Reese getting 11 and 10 respectively. Against the tough defensive front of Penn State led by All-American Steve Smear, the inexperienced offensive line of the Bruins was snowed under, quarterback Jim Nader being smothered by Penn State defenders five times before he could pass.

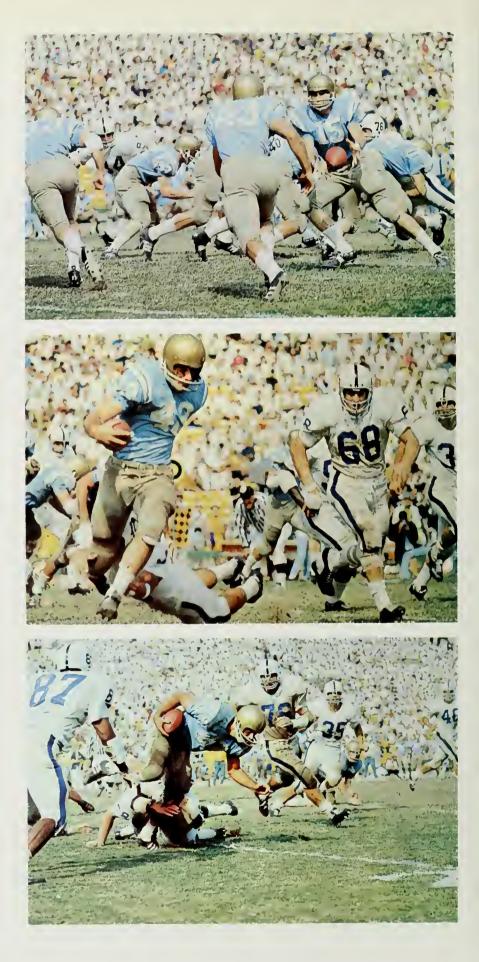

The shadow of two straight losses to non-Conference foes was supposed to be overcame by a successive string of victories over conference foes, culminating with a revenge for last year's squeaker by USC. Hawever, the Bruins got off to a rough start as they were surprised by an aggressive Berkeley team in Strawberry Canyon, that not only beat them 39-15, but also reinjured guarterback Bill Bolden, halfback George Farmer and defensive end Vince Bischof. Despite many errors during the first half the Bruins left the field at intermission boasting a 15-13 edge over the Bears. The second half, however, praved to be all Cal's, as the Bears held the Bruins pointless and piled up sixteen points.

After three straight losses however, the Bruins stormed back in the second half of their home game against Stanfor ending up with a 20-17 victory over the frustrated Indians. Down 14-0 at the half, the Bruins came back with the never-say-die Bolden. With anly a minute elapsed in the new half, Bolden passed to Gwen Cooper who brake a couple of tackles in running over 50 yards for the firstBruinscore. Only a couple of minutes later, the Bruins came back with a touchdown by fullback Rick Purdy. Bath times Bolden failed in his two-point conversion attempt. However, after Stanford had fattened its lead with a field goal at the beginning of the fourth quarter, "sub" guarterback Jim Nader hit Ron Copeland with a pass that was good for a fifty-yard gain to the Indian three. It only took Greg Jones one dive in perfect form to pull the Bruins ahead 18-17. Jones took the ball, this time, on the two-point conversion and jumped in to make the score 20-17 . . . and that's the way it stood as the gun sounded a few minutes later, despite Stanfard's sophomore quarterback Jim Plunkett and his accurate passing.

The Bruins thought that they had the impetus, after that victory, to sweep all their opponents out of the Rose Bowl, despite the statistical advantage that their opponents showed. Given what should have been a good scrimmage, a no-count contest at Tennessee, the Bruins headed for the Tartan turf stadium at Nashville. However they were not pleased with the thrashing that the Vols gave them on that sunny Southern afternoon. Despite the fact that the Bruins were not ready to put out a 100% effort in a nonleague game, it seemed that they weren't even out to play football as they blanked in the first half and allowed the Vols to amass a 35-0 lead before Mickey Cureton faked his way 99 yards up the field to return a kickoff and finally put the Bruins on the scoreboard. From the comments of the players however, it didn't really make that much difference, and they looked forward even more intensely to the following week's game with highly-rated Oregon State. However six of the Bruins had little to look forward to, having been added to the unbelievieable list of injuries. John Chrestman, reserve center, was carried off the field with a neck injury that left him paralyzed in a Nashville hospital bed for many days until his return to California.

In the opening minutes of the Oregon State game at Corvallis, it seemed that the Bruins had found the key to beating the big Oregon State line and 240-lb. fullback Bill "Earthquake" Enyart. The solution was to set the Beavers off balance. On the first play the Bruins took the ball from a "Zero" formation and sprang Mickey Cureton loose for a 38-yard run. Soon after, Bill Bolden had led the Bruins into the end zone to draw first blood. Then laboriously Bill Enyart battered his way into the Bruin end zone after Oregon State recovered a fumble deep in Bruin territory. But the Bruins weren't demoralized, when, only 15 seconds later Greg Jones decided to run the ball out of his endzone on the kick-off and flew into the opposite end zone for the second Bruin score. However, the strong Oregon line proved to be too much for the inexperienced front of UCLA in the second half and the Beavers pounded out touchdown after touchdown, finally coasting to a 45-21 victory over the Bruins. Not only did this loss mean the end of Bruin Rose Bowl hopes, but it gave a sense of personal defeat to the four senior starters on the UCLA team who never got a chance to play in Pasadena: Larry Agaganian, Mark Gustafson, Hal Griffin, and RickPurdy (who suffered a shoulder injury in this painful afternoon).

As defensive tackle Agajanian said after the game, "It'll be a matter of pride, now. If we have it, we'll win the next two games." But it was going to take more than pride . . . and the Bruins didn't get the breaks. The two last games of the season turned out to be frustrating for the tired and injury-ridden Bruins. Playing in 40degree weather in Seattle the Bruins were shut out for the first time in the four years of Tommy Prothro's coaching in Westwood. The Huskies, always tough on their own field ran up a quick touchdown early in the first quarter, and all the Bruins could do after that was repeatedly penetrate the Huskie 20-yard line and come out of it pointless. And of course, to add to the frustration, the Bruins picked up some more injuries in the tough defensive contest. Two minutes before the end of the game, Mike Ballou came out of the game with an ankle injury, and Back-of-the-Game Greg Jones who gained 107 yards in 23 carries ended up with a cut eye-brow, a cut lip, a sprained ankle, a charley horse and a sprained wrist.

There was little doubt that the Bruins played their best game of the year against Rose-Bowl bound SC on a foggy, moggy afternoon before millions of television spectators, but the only loss that they handed SC was the first-place rating the McKay's boys had possessed since the beginning of the season. Despite another recurrence of Bill Bolden's shoulder injury early in the gome, the Bruinsmounted a new balanced offense that came near to taking over the lead late in the second holf. Only o slippery field stopped Jim Nader from passing the possibly winning touchdown to Mike Garratt after a sustained offensive drive. Useless to soy, O.J. Simpson ran away with the game honors, going through and around the Bruins' inspired line time after time, but perhaps the best running of the day and the best hope the the Bruins' next season came from sophomore Mickey Cureton who, besides scoring both UCLA touchdowns, electrified the nation-wide television oudience as he ran back a third-quarter punt back 68 yords to set up the Bruins deep in USC territory.

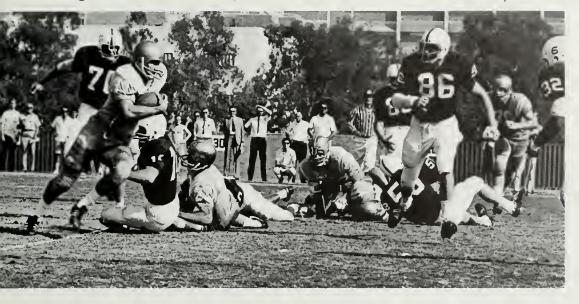

And so ended the fiftieth year of inter-collegiate footboll at UCLA. All the comments, from the footboll staff and players olike since November, have been of how much work has already been put into next season . . . and Coach Prothro hasn't even given a definite storting date for spring practice yet!

a glimmer of hope in tomorrow's varsity...

For the first time since Tommy Prothro took over the football program at UCLA, the Brubabes have gone through a season undefeated. Coached by former Bruin quarterback Norm Dow, the frosh fought their way past Stanford's frosh 34-6 and the traditionally strong SC contingent 27-13, and travelled to Berkeley for a winning bout with a huge Berkeley squad, 33-20. Their four-game schedule also included a 56-3 trouncing of UC Santa Barbara. No doubt, these footballers, unaccustomed to defeat, will be a welcome addition to Prothro's 1969 varsity.

After fifty straight victories, the UCLA water polo team finally went down to two successive defeats, to Long Beach State and USC. This was in part due to the absence of many of UCLA's best who after their victorious ways at UCLA, led the Olympic contingent in Mexico City last fall. However, after these two losses, the Polobruins were able to come back, and led by Toreey Webb and Jim Ferguson, climaxed the season with a victory over perennial challenger USC. All those who watched this team come back from its early-season defeats to win the Pacific Eight Crown for the fifth year in a row are optimistic about the future of Water Polo at UCLA. especially with the beginning of NCAA competition next year, and an undefeated frosh (11-0) waiting to join the first team next year.

Dennis Storer coaches soccer at UCLA, and very successfully. In the past two years of NCAA competition his teams have been invited to the play-offs in the Western Regionals of the NCAA tournament and have boasted a 26-3-1 twoyear record. Last year they were beaten in the first round; this year they reached the second round in the Western Regional (which is considered the toughest of the nation) before losing to eventual finalist San Jose 3-1. This team, however, considers its chances for a national berth will be bettered next year with the coming of Ethiopian star Agonafer who has led his nation's team in over 50 international matches. Collegiate soccer teams have always depended on players of foreign origin (such as UCLA's Bernard Okoye and Tony Nemer) yet English-born Coach Storer sees the leadership of his teams

In virtually every sport UCLA competes in, the ultimate test for the Bruins lies with the cross-town boys from Troy. This year only a few days before the final cross-country finale, Coach Jim Bush announced, "If we can't beat SC, then we don't deserve to go to the Championships." SC went on to eliminate the Bruins, winning 24-33 despite the first place finish of Bruin Hartzell Alpizar. Bush attributed this last loss by the Bruins to their schedule which matched the Bruins with both Pacific-Eight teams and open competitors. The previous Saturday, the Bruins had run away with the SPAAU Championship. Coach Bush's closing comment of the season was one which should encourage next year's cross country fans to follow the Bruin harriers closely; "We get everyone back next year except Preston and Husaruk. Mike Mullens who is sitting out this year and Dave Smith will add new strength to our team."

In a year plagued by injuries and erratic performances the Bruin grapplers were still able to finish the season with an outstanding showing to capture third in the Pacific Eight meet and an all-time high in the NCAA meet which netted them eighth place. Individually, seniors Sergio Gonzales and John Hahn finished second and third nationally, in the 115 and 130-pound classes respectively.

The United States Basketball Coaches Association presented John Wooden with the plaque awarded to the Coach of the Year.

"Baron" Adolph Rupp, basketball coach at Kentucky quickly changed the expression on his face as he sat at the head table.

It was not that he didn't know that Wooden would be presented with the award for the third time in his career, but he could not bear to see the presentation.

The broad grin on his face, cemented there by the 48 hour party he hosted just prior to the luncheon, disappeared completely from his face.

For Rupp, this was the signal that the war was lost, for him the battle was over.

Wooden went on to win his fifth NCAA title, his third in a row. Rupp, who was previously tied with Wooden at four now has to win one just to tie the "Wizard" and he has to start from scratch and win three straight to equal that Wooden achievement.

But why should any man who has four NCAA titles of his own feel beaten?

"From the time Lew came to UCLA," Wooden explained on the bus after the Bruins won the fifth NCAA title for him, "Adolph Pupp has been bad-mouthing Lew and UCLA. All year he was taking about how Kentucky was going to beat UCLA in the NCAA finals. (Kentucky was downed by Marquette 81-74 in the first round of the Mid-East Regional and so they never even advanced to the final four.) I think we showed him that we could play good ball."

Wooden's coaching record now stands at 714-193. He has won roughly four of every five games he has ever coached.

In 21 years at UCLA, Wooden has never had a losing season. His UCLA record of 448-137 is one of the finest in the nation and his five NCAA titles (3 of them in a row) is unprecedented.

But the rift between a John Wooden and an Adolph Rupp is more than a contest for NCAA titles.

It is a contest between diverse ways of thinking and doing things.

While Rupp was conducting his 48 hour party, Wooden was spending the time with his wife and his team.

For the first time, the Coaches Association opened their luncheon to their wives. You could count the women on two hands, but one of them was Mrs. Wooden.

Coach Wooden would never say that he was glad to surpass Rupp, it's not his nature. Rupp, on the other hand, visibly walked out at halftime during the Bruin's championship game with Purdue.

On the bus leaving Freedom Hall, with the NCAA first place trophy aboard Wooden received a tie bar with a gold "5."

"Maybe I sould send it to Rupp," Wooden joked.

"I think you ought to send him five bottles of Kentucky bourbon so he can drown out his troubles," Lew suggested. He paused for a moment and reiterated, "Come to think of it, coach, he's probably already finished the second one."

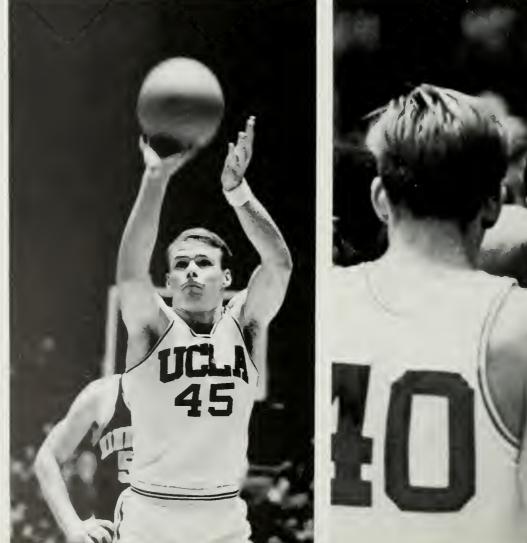

Though the Bruins were rated Number One in both the AP and UPI polls throughout the season, some spectators expressed their doubts about the strength of the Bruin's guards. Coach Wooden, until the end of the season felt this too, and he shifted his players constantly during the season looking for the best combination to fill the shoes of All-Americans Mike Warren and Lucius Allen. The first starters were seniors Bill Sweek and Don Saffer. After Saffer dropped out of the basketball program, Sweek alternated at the starting role with converted forward Kenny Heitz and junior John Vallely. Towards the end of the season however, when Cal and SC both used their deliberate offenses and a full-court press, forwards Curtis Rowe, Sydney Wicks and Lynn Shackelford helped bring the ball down the court. The play of these men was more than sufficient to win a National Championship, however, as John Vallely scored 29 points against Drake in the semi-final game, and Kenny Heitz played the defensive game of the year in the final forcing All-American Rick Mount of Purdue to play the worst game of his career.

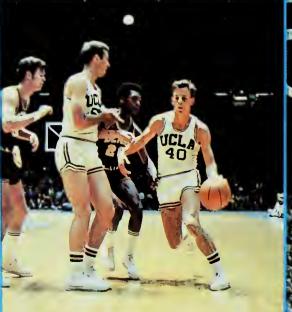

If John Wooden had some problems with his guards, the strength of the Bruins at the forward positions amply compensated for it. Two forwards from Los Angeles, Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks, in their sophomore seasons combined with veteran Lynn Shackelford to make UCLA one of the strongest teams in the nation on the boards. As if these three could not supply the Bruins with sufficient backboard strength and inside shooting, Coach Wooden often sent in center Steve Patterson to play forward or high-post center. Though three of these players were in the first year of varsity play, their cool professionalism equaled that of the veterans from the start. Curtis Rowe's last-second free throws saved the Bruins from defeat in the Cal game up at Berkeley and his repeat performance against the Trojans a week later put the Bruins into a life-saving overtime. This caliber of play impressed the press into naming him All-American in his first season.

EI I

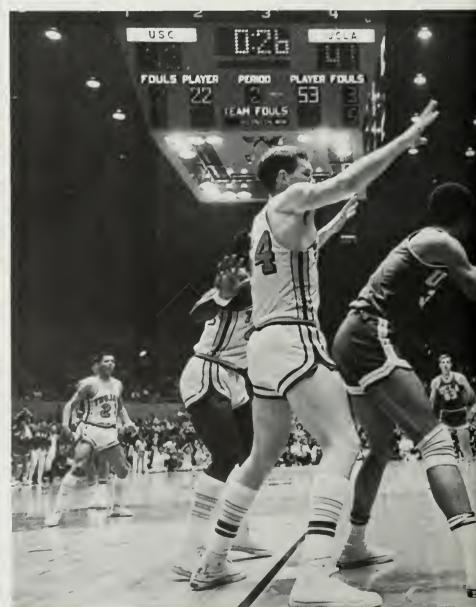

There was the beginning of the basketball season. Those were the non-league, no-count contests where we managed to beat people like Purdue in the season opener, when neither the Boilermakers not the Bruins were very smooth-working units. And then the Bruins went to Notre Dame for the opening of the new field house in South Bend, and they beat the Irish who were ranked in the top ten. That's about when people started believing that someone could win the NCAA three times in a row, if they had Lew Alcindor on their team, that is. But before the Bruins went into league play, they traveled to the ECAC Holiday Tournament at Madison Square Garden, presumably to meet North Carolina's Tar Heels in the final. But North Carolina never made it into the finals and UCLA had to be satisfied with a win over Saint John's. After a few more easy home games against now-mediocre teams like Houston, the Bruins started wading into league play with teams that from the start seemed to believe that they were doomed to defeat. Even the slow-down tactics of Oregon State lacked enough class to pose a threat to the Bruin defense.

Attendance figures stayed at their traditionally high level, probably not somuch because anybody thought that Bruins' opponents could win, but rather because this was the last year that you could see Lew at Pauley. Coach Wooden couldn't seem to make up his mind on who would start the game, and fans soon got used to seeing the "starting eight" win another game for UCLA.

After twenty-six regular games, it looked like UCLA was going to run up its second undefeated season in three years. Highlyrated foes like Notre Dame and Purdue had fallen to the press and the impressive defense of Big Lew. When one of the "starting eight" was shooting cold, another would take his place and pull the team away in typical UCLA style. But the last three games of Pacific-eight play, proved to be the hardest of the year. Traveling to the over-crowded gym at Berkeley, the Bruins were forced into an overtime period against the Bears by the combination of a pair of sharp-shooting guards and a deliberate Cal offense. In fact the Bears led most of the game and it was only the cool free-throwing of Curtis Rowe that allowed the Wooden quintet to go into a winning overtime. The next week however was to prove even tougher as the Bruins tangled with Bob Boyd's pepped-up Trojans in the Sports Arena.

An overflow crowd at the Sports Arena watched Bob Boyd's boys play a well-executed game of keep-away in a renewal of the Trojan stall of 1967. At the end of the regular game both teams were tied. At the end of the overtime with less than ten seconds to go the Trojans made good on on a two-point jumper. The Bruins called a quick time out while the cross-town rivals jubilated in their huddle, but the Bruins came back on the floor and Lynn Shackelford sank a thirty-foot arching jump shot to insure a second overtime period. That was all the Bruins needed and they quickly outscored the Trojans seven to two in what turned out to be the final five minutes. After two consecutive close ones, the Bruins went into their home den at Pauley confident that USC couldn't repeat the previous night's exhausting stall. But they did, and Ernie Powell sank a long jumper from the right of the key with only six seconds remaining that broke the Bruins home stadium and the 47-game winning streak dating back to the Houston contest last year.

Tournaments can be the most exciting events of the basketball season, or they can be just plain dull. This year's tournament could have been a real thriller, ... but the Bruins walked away with the trophy anyway. New Mexico State walked into Pauley Pavillion talking about a wellperfected stall, and they tried it, and even led the Bruins for a part of the game; but by the time they got back into the action after half-time, the Bruins had already won the game. Santa Clara, second-rated in the polls, and fresh from an overtime victory over Weber State watched the Bruins on Friday and declared that they would run with the Bruins. And run they did; all of fifteen feet before the Bruins forced them into a succession of turn-overs. Five minutes after the game started the Broncos were behind by nine points and from them on , they never had a real hope as the second string played a good part of the second half for both teams. Lew Alcindor and the three other seniors walked off their home court for the last time with relaxed smiles of sure winners.

The Bruins were rated Number One as they walked into Freedom Hall in Louisville Kentucky for the final round of the NCAA Tournament. Surely much of the anticipated excitement had disappeared with the early elimination of both home teams, Louisville and Kentucky. So had the expected showdown between Baron Rupp of Kentucky and John Wooden, both four-time winners of the NCAA trophy. The only real question was whether the Bruins would walk away with an unprecedented third consecutive NCAA title. A smaller and faster Drake team tried hard to show the basketball world that UCLA could be outrun, and they did, almost wiping out in the last two minutes an eight-point cushion the Bruins had steadily mounted. Lynn Shackelford drew a foul with the closing buzzer and gave the Bruins a threepoint final edge.

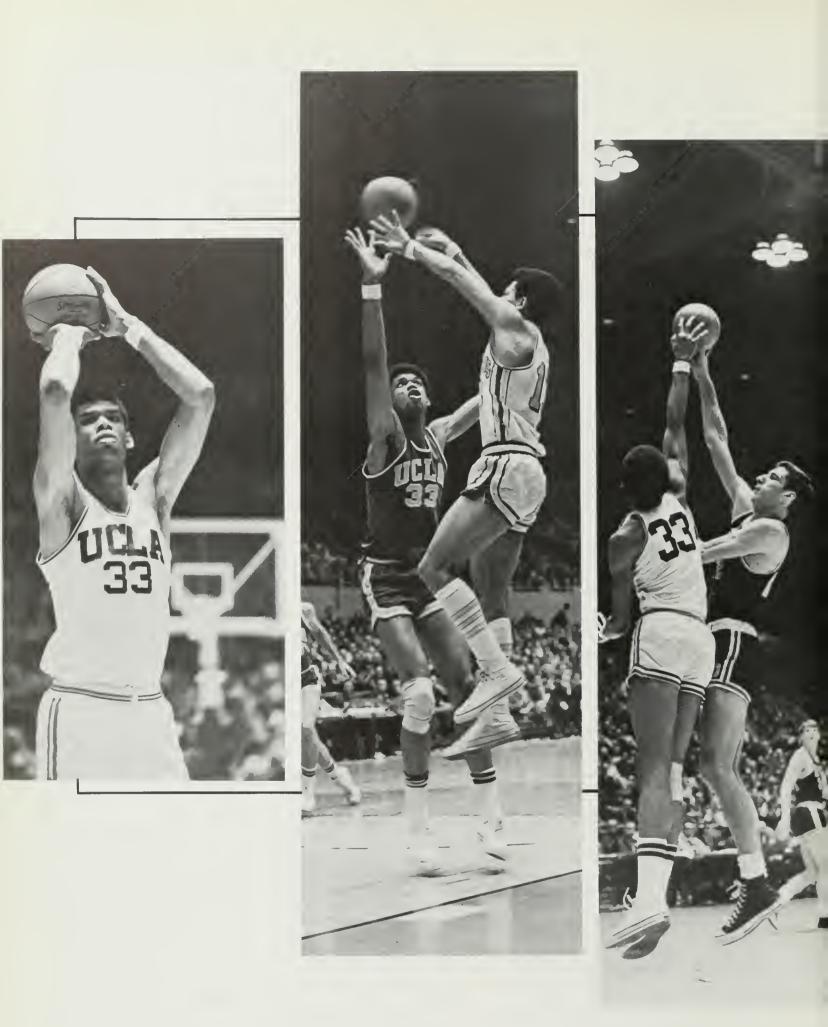

While the Bruins ran with tenth-rated Drake in the semi-final, a funny thing called Rick Mount happened to thirdrated North Carolina, Favored to beat the Purdue Boilermakers, the Tar Heels lost their chances for a revenge bout with Lew and Company, As Mountkept North Carolina glued to the floor and lobbed and gunned the ball into the basket from every conceivable place on the court. Purdue's easy victory over North Carolina combined with the Bruins' struggle to get past the semi-final round led some sportswriters to bet on Purdue for the finals. But somebody forgot to tell Kenny Heitz that Rick Mount was the hottest guard in the tournament, and thesenior Bruin, waving his hands in Mount's face and blocking a good portion of shots, forced Purdue's blond gunner into the worst performance of his career. Before half-time there was already no doubt that the Bruins could do what the others had failed to do before; three in a row, and five out of six NCAA crowns.

Ferdinand Lewis Alcindor was on the UCLA basketball program for four years, four years during which he was able to prove to fellow-students, press and the basketball world that he was the greatest basketball player that the sport has seen. These were certainly not easy years for Lew either; in addition to the expected pressure of having to win on the court he also found how hard it was for him to be tall and to be black, all in what seemed to him to be an unfriendly land. It is somewhat strange that we as students of the school he attended expected him to be impermeable to stares, scholastic pressures and the weight of having to live up to an image that had been created for him by the press. The greatest homage to his greatness on the court has probably been the acceptance by all that in any game he will be the dominating player. He has more than lived up to his potential as a player. Coach Wooden has summed this up very well by saying that even though other teams might have won three NCAA championships with Lew, he (Wooden) is the only one who can stand proudly among all coaches as being the one who actually did it.

Very few of the students of UCLA know the real character of Lew Alcindor, yet few of the sports fans among us will forget the fact that we were here at UCLA at the same time, and not be proud of it.

This year's freshman basketball team probably holds the answer to who is going to play guard on next year's varsity. Led by guards Andy Hill (number 24) and Henry Bibby (25) the Brubabes showed their scoring potential in accumulating over ninety points in seven of their eighteen games. Though often playing against much bigger and taller opponents forwards Carlos Rojas (22), Rick Swartz (52) and Curtis Wells managed to score their share of points.

Starting center Mark Wright (34) and reserve center Rich Fields found the same problems in competing with pivot-men four and five inches taller. Though not blessed with a superstor, this year's frosh gave those fans who came to Pouley early on excellent demonstration of team spirit and play.

gymnastics

Though the Bruins only placed fourth in the final Pacific Eight standings in gymnastics, they ended their regular season with an impressive record that included a hairline victory over rival SC. The Bruins ended up fourth behind Cal, Washington and SC with a score of 151.70 in the league tournament. However this rather high total was only one of the Bruins' impressive late-season scores. In their first meet, the Bruins were only able to score 137 points, but they kept improving, with victories over All-Cal opponents, UCI, UCSB, and UCD. A pause in their winning ways was caused by the Oklahoma Sooners. but in their next meet theywere able to romp over Stanford. First-rated Cal defeated the Bruins handily. but the climax of the season for the Bruins came in their one-point defeat of the Trojans. In Pacific Eight competition, Larry Bassist did well enough to qualify for the NCAA finals in Free exercise and long horse and also placed fourth in high bar and fifth in parallel bars. The Bruins closed their season on May 9, hosting an invitational featuring the top gymnasts in the nation in Pauley Pavilion.

Even though UCLA has fielded a rugby team since the thirties, there has never been a club as successful as the 1968 UCLA varsity side. Coach Dennis Storer, "an American with an English accent," as he refers to himself, has led his ruggers to a sweep of the Southern California, Pacific Eight and Canadian World Cup Championships.

In addition, the successful coach of the nation's top-ranked team has brought the National Rugby Union's Coach of the Year Award to UCLA for the first time ever. Including a severe beating administered to traditional powerhouse Berkeley, and two victories over SC, the ruggers have made rugby UCLA's most successful outdoor sport of the year. Their 24-1 record does not betray what Coach Storer calls "one of the toughest schedules in the nation." Besides the collegiate teams that they have faced. the Bruins have beaten many veteran rugby clubs of the area and the two top-ranked teams of Canada. Their only defeat came at the hands of the touring Australian champions of Sydney University, who, after allowing the Bruins a 3-0 lead came back late in the game to edge the Bruins 9-3. Despite their reputation for not handing out compliments, the Sydney groups was forced to admit that they didn't expect to run into anything like this highly-disciplined side from UCLA. The result of sound training and outstanding team spirit was evident to the last. as the Bruins represented UCLA against the University of British Columbia and the University of Victoria on the Canadians' home territory. Despite the fact that four starters were unable to make the trip the Bruins swept their three encounters and came away with the Canadian World Cup, symbolic of the North American Championship, the first time an American side has done so since Berkeley accomplished the feat more than ten years ago.

Some of them are varsity football players, or former ones. Some of them look like their size would bar them from this rough contact sport. A good number of them are graduate students in medicine or law. Since rugby is not a scholarship sport, they can't spend three hours a day on the practice field in addition to an off-season weight-training program. Yet Coach Dennis Storer has been able to drill them well enough to make UCLA's the top "technical" side in the nation. In their last two games, against an SC side mainly composed of football players "We took a terrible physical beating" according to Coach Storer, but with the well-practiced plays that are executed with apparent spontaneity by a confident rugby side, they soundly beat the big Trojan club. The rugby player, especially here in America, according to Coach Storer, is a true amateur. Not only does he receive no scholarship nor tutoring aid, but he plays the game for the pure pleasure of the sport. In emphasizing a sound training program while not dismissing the traditional social element of the game, Coach Storer has earned the respect of both both the coaching and the general university community. Some of his admirers go so far as to compare him to Coach John Wooden such is his dedication to the emphasis "the spirit of the game," which has led his players to a high level of cool, confident, inspired proficiency. Though the best games are often more rewarding to the players than to the spectators, all those attending Bruin matches this year can witness to the spectacular play of the Bruins, which, combined with their success, could well make this sport one of the top draws of the UCLA athletic programs. There is no doubt that this happy breed of hard-working athletes is out to make rugby a well-attended sport at UCLA, and in the process Coach Storer has succeeded in making his team a champion and in inspiring his players accordingly. Storer tells of one of his fine forwards, a former varsity footballer who came up to him after the Stanford game. "You know, coach," he said, "I've been playing against these same guys for four years now, but until this afternoon, I really didn't know them.'

Coaching baseball is a pretty merciless task in a university. Coach Art Reichle will attest to that fact and over the past twenty-five years he has been here he has felt this many times as UCLA's varsity coach. You go out and recruit the best players after building up a solid program over the years, and just as your players are getting good, the pros get them. He has nurtured hopes for a national championship many times and has come away empty-handed but Coach Reichle still turns out a club rated in the top twenty in the nation. Next year the Bruins will get what Reichle has dreamed of for years, a home baseball diamond on campus; but he may never coach on it; the NCAA championship which seems within grasp this year may just be the finishing note for the career of UCLA's senior varsity coach.

In the five years that Coach Bob Horn has led the Bruin swimmers, his teams have scored over 50 points in the NCAA meet at season's end. Along with his colleague Buzz Thayer, he coaches both swimming and water polo and thus is responsible for a year-round aquatics program that has seen every frosh and varsity school record fall since his coming to UCLA. Since Olympic medal winners Zac Zorn and Mike Burton sat out the year, the Bruins were only able to place sixth (102 points) in the nationals in Bloomington in March. However with these two world record-holders back on next year's squad the Bruins expect to get back among the top five schools in the nation and to move up one notch into the top Pacific-Eight berth currently held by USC.

Though the Bruin tennis team has been one of the strongest in the nation in dual meet competition, they have in the past five years found themselves at a great disadvantage when it comes to the final NCAA tournament where a couple members of USC's starstudded team usually reach the final rounds. This year to counter the strength of the Trojans, led by Davis Cupper Bob Lutz, the Bruins have found in the Barth-Tidball combo a doubles pair that just may win the nationals. They have already beaten the firstseeded doubles team of Lutz and Smith and look forward to the NCAA trophy that has eluded the Bruins for three years.

The objective of Karate is found in the way in which man strives to develop, through systematic training, the full potential he possesses. Its manifestations are in the expression of movement and power. Karate contests are based upon two of the training disciplines – Kumite (free-sparring) and Kata (form), under the strict rules that have been established for competition. In three Western Regional Tournaments held, the UCLA team has placed first and second in Kumite competition. The UCLA team is affiliated with the All America Karate Federation. It is coached by A.A.K.F. Chief Instructor Yutaka Yaguchi, 5th Dan, and 1961-63 National Champion James Yabe, 2nd Dan.

Some people tend to downgrade the importance of intramural athletics on a campus of 29,000 students. However the very successful intramural program at UCLA is not only supplying "dormies" and Greeks with an opportunity to play football and-or basketball. Consider the soccer program (which fields over 60 teams). It has played a large role in the growth of this sport on campus. Or intramural wrestling . . . a new thing. On second thought, don't just think about it . . . intramurals office is on the first floor of the men's gym.

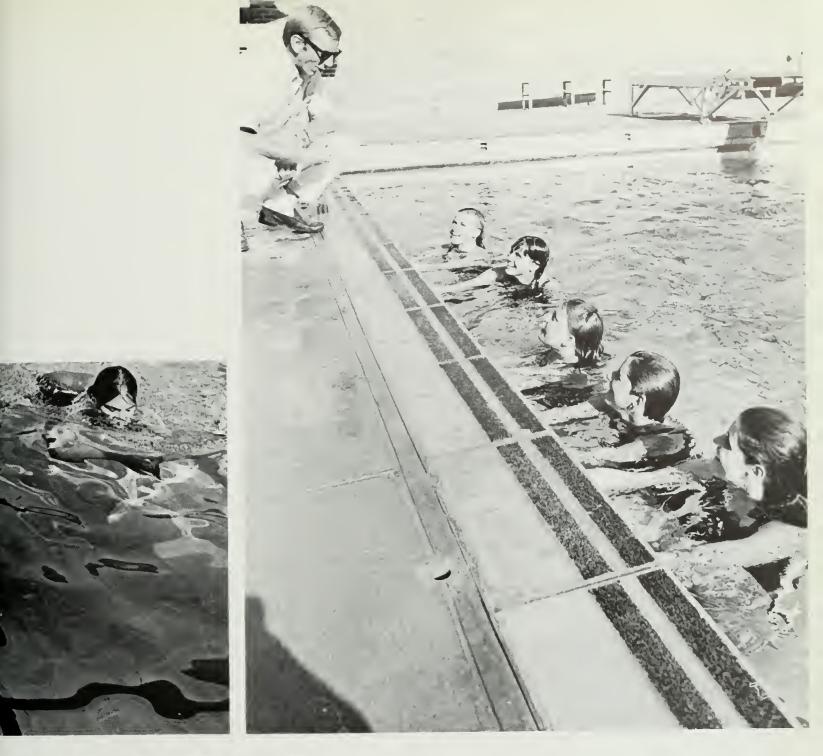

intercollegiate women's athletics

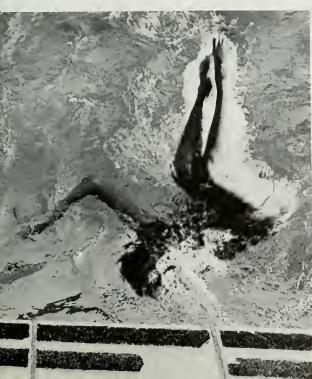

For those who believe that there is no such thing as an amateur collegiate athlete, let's look at the women's intercollegiate athletic program at UCLA. Offering no scholarships nor special advantages to those involved, this program still draws nearly 100 girls willing to practice at least six hours a week in addition to meets, games and tournaments. Less than half of them are physical education majors, and since they don't compete in NCAA their recognition from the campus community is indeed small. Next year the participation of the tennis and golf teams in NCAA competition may bring this program to a level which will cause this sports-minded campus to notice the girls at last.

Last March the UCLA ski team walked away with a 1-2-3 finish in a June Mountain ski competition with twelve ather Sauthern California calleges. The UCLA surfing Team has cansistently taken the West Coast Intercallegiate Finals in competition with same of the highest-caliber amateur surfers of the nation. Again in March a city-wide audience packed the Wilshire Ebell Theater to see the Aman Dancers From UCLA before they went up to The University of San Francisco for a performance before 2500 Bay Area spectators. Most weekends when the acean is clear you can see the UCLA Sailing Club boats plying the southern California coastal waters, while somewhere down below a contingent of scuba divers are participating in a lobster hunt or training members far scuba certification. In the sheer pleasure of exercise, in intercollegiate competition, ar with an active social calendar, over two thousand students have found a special way to identify with the university through the URA clubs, ane of the pragrams offered by the Office of Cultural and Recreational Affairs.

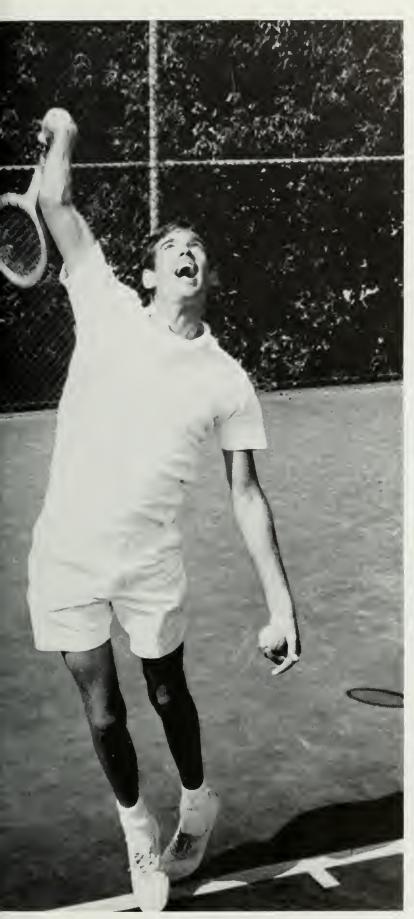

Headquarters and mail boxes far the URA are located in the sixth floar af Kerckhaff Hall, but all that is provided there is the official backing and office space for one of the most widespread extra-curricular programs of the university. This is truly a studentrun program; except for a quarterly Executive Committee meeting, the clubs are autonomous in nature, relying on their own impetus for the direction and scape of their activities. Most students may be surprised to see the size of the URA Sports Car Club at their annual campus auto show, since most of their activities (such as an auto rally for Uni-Camp) are held off campus.

The impressive showings of the sparts clubs in competition and the other clubs in their demonstrations take the limelight. however the simple social contact that these clubs offer free of charge to all students cannot be under-rated. The accreditation granted to the Highly organized Skin 'n' Scuba Club by lacal authorities demonstrates the seriousness of these clubs on their wellorganized attempt to profit to the fullest from the opportunities that the university offers to students. Besides the fulfillment that these clubs have given to many students, the have furnished a framework for selfimprovement to a higher level of proficiency in sport or hobby.

Panhellenic Council is manythings: an organization which is composed of two representatives from each of the twenty-one national sororities, a place to work towards good intracampus and intersorority relations, a group to determine rush procedures, a forum to sound out and resolve issues concerning the Greek system, a place to relay bits of information-from announcements about a sorority's collection for UNICEF of Biafra to advertisements about new products on the market-or simply, Panhellenic is a necessary communication center for a large minority on this campus.

junior panhellenic

Junior Panhellenic is an organization which is sponsored within the framework of Panhellenic Council and composed of pledge representatives from each sorority. It serves a dual purpose: to perform services for the University and Panhellenic and to better acquaint new sorority members with each other.

alpha delta chi

This year Alpha Delta Chi emphasized the importance of service in its three aspects. The spiritual, social, and academic activities bound the girls closer together.

Many of the girls had worked with churches in underprivileged areas during the summer. With a new school year and a great pledge class, we dove enthusiastically into a flurry of activities. We participated in Bruin Week with Triangle Fraternity; then we took the boys from Marks' Home for Boys on a playday-picnic.

At Halloween, we entertained the children at the UCLA Medical Center, singing and carving pumpkins with them. The pledges gave the actives an old-fashioned Christmas Party with everyone stringing popcorn and cranberries in front of a crackling fire.

The initiates were formally presented at our annual Recognition Banquet. Then, the Alpha Delta Chi and Alpha Gamma Omega chapters from all over the Southland retreated to the snowy mountains for a weekend of fun and spiritual fellowship. This year our chapter sponsored our National Convention, hostessing a conference and luncheon. The year was filled with fun and lots of fellowship.

This moment of silence is brought to you . . . with appriciation to the brothers of Beta Theta Pi for their rousing rendition of "On The Farm"-and the Fijis, for "milk and cookies" at our serenade.

Winner of this year's Boarder's Award is Denise (sponsored by Doesitalot, Obscene Jeanine, Mortunda and Obtuse). First runner-up is Tootie (sponsored by Tom-Tom and Beta Theta Pi); and Wulf traversed second place (sponsored by P.B., C.F., Deb, Mort, Mel, and other members of Skiiers Amalgamated.)

Sweet Helen was crowned first annual Taco Belle-and close on her trail was Lusty Leish Lopez. Among our other queenly aspirants was our own businessman's wishing Star.

The un-Kuhl award was voted unanimously to an unsuspected visitor.

Congratualations to our Pebble-bearers: Krotz, Burnett, Sand, Wierd Tiffany, Barts and Obie from the Big Red.

And congrats also to the pledges who were "draughted" to maintain Alpha Chi Omega's notoriety at their Phi Delt Ditch.

Then there's pledge Converse who finally announced her engagement ... to Mother Goose!

And Phyllis-in a triumphant repeat of preceding and neverending years-kept within the budget again, a heartrending (or, rather, stomach-binding) gesture ...

Oh!- and by the way, Ross Hoffman, who is R.F.?

Alpha Delta Pirepresents traditions and friendships over one hundred years old. Alpha Chi chapter has perpetuated many of these traditions while initiating a few of our own. With eighteen enthusiastic pledges we began a year that was as diversified as our members' individual interests. Aside from the traditional initiation party held at the Surfrider Inn, formal presents, and Homecoming, and the usual round of exchanges and parties the pledges displayed their usual fine spirit by kidnapping the actives for a memorable night at Griffith Park. The Hell's Angel Banquet was another surprise presented by the pledge class who familiarized the actives with the ways of that famed motorcycle club. These deserving pledges celebrated their initiation at the annual Diamond Ball held at the Marina del Rey Hotel where fine cuisine and a beautiful atmosphere provided a lasting remembrance to each member. But despite our many activities, the ADPi's were able to share the most important aspect of sorority life-sisterhood and the lasting friendships that only a sorority can bring.

Taking the largest pledge class on the row, Alpha Epsilon Phi began fall quarter with a new burst of enthusiasm. School spirit and pep were demonstrated by our two representatives on the frosh song girl squad, Susie Baskin and Sunny Zimmerman and was further exemplified by representatives participating in Bruinettes, Bruin Belles, Sophomore Sweethearts, Spurs, and Tutorial Project.

The Phis anxiously participated with ZBT in the new and exciting Bruin Week. We received second place for the most humorous display, "The Trojans are a 'Bruin' in the Pot", and also second place in the skit contest.

We are especially proud of JoAnne Golden who became a princess many times over for Sigma Nu, ZBT and Mardi Gras. Marlene Litvak also represented us on the AEPi calendar while Jill Greenberg and Tracy Reed became members of the AWS Fashion Board. The girls also were actively busy in various little sister organizations.

In the outside world Tracy Reed represented UCLA for TWA and Cindy Kent was occupied representing AEPhi for Mademoiselle Magazine and the Heart Association.

After a successful retreat in Lake Arrowhead, the house staged a triumphant theater party where the proceeds from the movie "Oliver!" went to our philanthropy, the Well Baby Clinic.

As a house and as individuals we "Took Care of Business."

Building a boat in a bottle . . . a full-sized sailboat? On Sunset Boulevard? Only one of the neat things Alpha Gams have done this year!

Academics? Alpha Gams in Mortar Board, Chimes, Alpha Lambda Delta, several departmental honoraries, on the Dean's list.

Kerckhoff? Alpha Gams on Elections Board, Educational Policy Commission, Mardi Gras Executive Board, Monte Carlo Night Executive Board, AWS Presidents Board, the Upstairs Committee, Tutorial Project.

Hostesses? Alpha Gams in Bruin Belles, Sophomore Sweethearts, Bruinettes, Anchors, Angel Flight.

Fraternities? Alpha Gams little sisters to Sigma Chi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Zeta Psi, Alpha Gamma Omega.

Athletics? Alpha Gams on the UCLA badminton, golf, rifle, volleyball teams, various intramural teams.

Philanthropy? Alpha Gams volunteering in the Medical Center, raising money for cerebral palsy research.

Fun? Alpha Gams on their pledge retreat, both at and after Presents, "Painting the Town Red" at the fall pledge party, at exchange dinners, the Christmas buffet, the many "spreads," fathers' night, wildly supporting Alcindor and Company, at the initiation party, working at Mardi Gras, at the mothers' tea, at the spring formal, ...

In general? Alpha Gams enjoying every minute the friendships and good times, studying and trying not to study together!

alpha omicron pi

The sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi are SYNERGISTIC-we work together to accomplish more than we could as individuals. The past year was no exception.

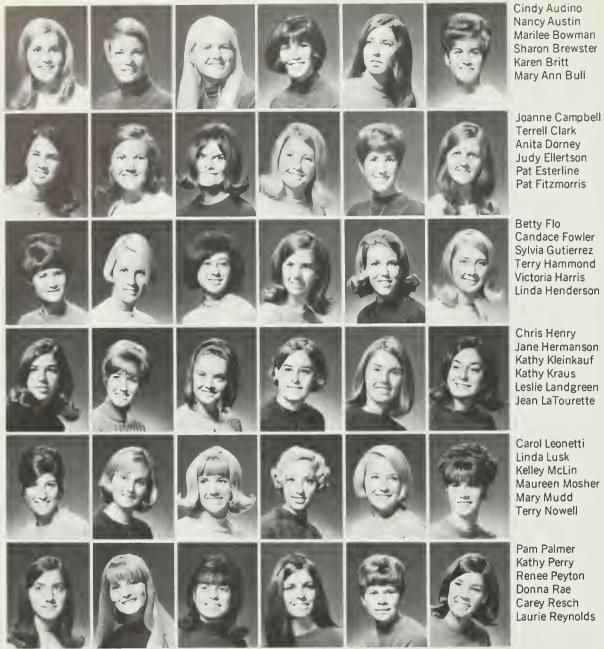

In the community, on the campus, and within the house itself AOPi's heeded the call for creative togetherness. The Arthritis Foundation gave us envelopes to stuff, doorbells to ring, telephones to answer, and stars like Glen Campbell to meet. The Tutorial project gave us soul food in helping a child to read. Greek Week and Mardi Gras gave us the joy (and trophies) of raising that hard-to-find scholarship and Uni-Camp money.

Even as individuals we chose to join with others in political clubs, Anchors, Speakers' Bureau, Campus tour guides, English-In-Action, Sophomore Sweethearts, Shell and Oar, Intramurals, and the URA clubs. Our house G.P.A. also soared to a 3.0.

"All work and no play"-AOPi's never heard the phrase. From Initiation Formal at the Beverly Hilton, through a pancake breakfast, car rally, Christmas tree-trimming party, invite-your-professor-to-dinner night, senior breakfast, and hayride, to the annual Shipwreck party, we got in condition for hostessing the National AOPi Convention to be held in Los Angeles this June.

1968-69 was a year of loving sisterhood reaching out.

This year man proved that almost anything is possible. Man can now fly to the moon, but he still cannot stop Time. Time, that immeasurable element that is to be found nowhere in abundance, especially in the academic lives of students. However, Alpha Phis this year did take time to do those things which they considered both worthwhile and enjoyable.

This year we took time to participate in Spurs, Chimes, Bruin Belles, Anchors, Shell and Oar, Angel Flight, on the Tennis team and Unicamp Board, Prytaneans, Sophomore Sweethearts, Cal Club, Bruin Week Committee, and in various little sister organizations.

We took time to give to the Heart Fund (our national philanthropy), to the Uni-campers, to Tutorial project, and to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

We took time to laugh and enjoy at our Christmas tree trimming party, the Pledge-Active, the Prohibition Party, Dad's Night, the Parents' Potluck, Homecoming, Mardi Gras, and the Ranch Party.

We took time to be friendly.

We took time to be sisters together.

PAULA PORTER

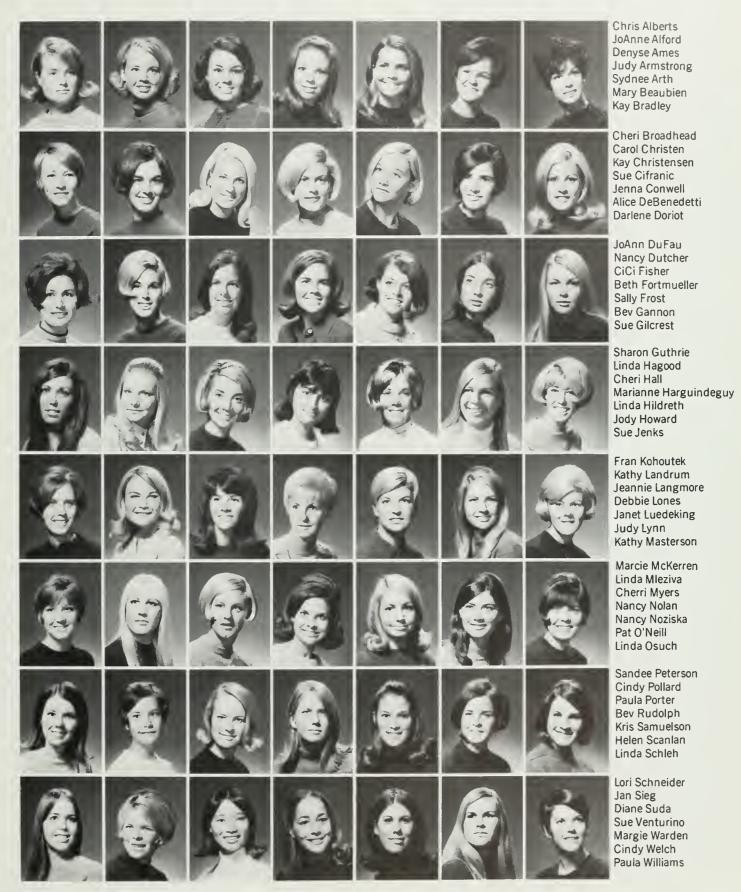

The times demand that the Greek system prove the worth of its existence. Greeks must demonstrate that they can contribute to the University community and are not simply living off the fat of the land. With nineteen girls deciding that Chi Omega was quite viable, another year of group living began and friendships grew quickly.

Meetings, Monday night entertainment, and a Chi Omega-Phi Psi pledge ditch added to pledge class unity. Smiles wore thin and feet ached on Presents night. Your shampoo was gone and the last time someone borrowed your yellow dress she'd spilled coffee on it. Through such tribulations, however, pledges had the Fall cocktail party, their pledge-active plans, and hopes of eventual initiation to sustain them. A mischievous pledge class honored their active sisters with a "Go To Hell" party. Then Inspiration week loomed ahead; pledge pins were prominently displayed, scrapbooks were thrown together, and lineups were tolerated. Yet, while dancing aboard the yacht Mansion Belle to celebrate initiation, it all seemed worth it.

Chi Omega could not be called a lethargic house. Actives and pledges combined to show their physical fitness in Women's Intramurals. Chi Omegas were represented in Bruin Belles, Sophomore Sweethearts, Shell and Oar, Project India, and as fraternity little sisters. A number of girls found their forte in activism. Some worked on political campaigns while others joined CASE to help improve housing practices and educational curricula. For others, Tutorial Project offered a new way to give. Afternoons spent in Venice meant helping a child who didn't really get that Spot was a dog or who couldn't quite grasp what fractions were all about.

But perhaps Chi Omega's greatest contribution is in what she teaches her own members. In the house, through conflict and conversation, and understanding of one's own, and others, humanity is reached. Patience, tolerance, and love are given a chance to grow.

Anti-establishment radicals may still not be convinced of Chi Omega's right to survive, but a place where one may find warmth and mitigation of loneliness can't be all bad.

In this age of computer business, computer education and computer dating, it is easy for one to feel alone or lost, merely 1 number in 28,000. College becomes an endless search for friends, sharing, smiles, and caring. For us, "sorority" means more than parties.

At the same time, we recognize the "UCLA way" of doing things, and likewise, we offer our mathematical version of the past year.

Again this year DG's were active in all aspects of campus life, participating in Big and Little Sister groups, Fashion Board, Sophomore Sweethearts, Angels Flight, Bruinettes, Anchors, Mardi Gras Committee, Blood Drive Committee, Bruin Belles and Tutorial Project. Claudie Fecho and Teri Sandison spent their junior year in England just as Laurel Brunner returned from Germany. DG's were also honored as having Sherrie McLaren as Red Carnation Queen, Linda Bradshaw as ZBT Queen and Linda Kako as a varsity song girl.

Along with being active on campus, house activities kept everyone jumping with preparations for the Halloween Party, Christmas Party, scholarship banquet, Mom and Dads' Night, Initiation, Winter formal pledge-active, and the annual Luau. DG's as a house project also helped to collect $2,700 for aid to Biafra.

As busy as the house was, we were still able to maintain a 2.8+ grade average and maintain second place in scholarship rating on the row.

Fall Rush kicked off a busy year at the D Phi E house. After Presents, we surprised our new pledges with a kidnap breakfast. They retaliated by imprisoning the Actives upstairs in a jail of waterfilled paper cups which lined the stairs.

Little Sister Rush saw our girls pledged as little sisters to Phi Sigma Delta, TEPS and Theta Xi fraternities. Other social highlights included Exchanges, work on our Bruin Week Float with T D Phi, which won us a first place trophy in the Humorous Division (so what if it fell apart right after the judges saw it!), and Intermural Volleyball with TEPS.

With a little bit of luck and a lot of smiles, we raised $125.00 for Cystic Fibrosis, our National Philanthropy.

Our Pledges held a spaghetti dinner, complete with checkered tablecloths, candlelight, and stuck-together spaghetti, a few weeks after which came Finals and an Active "Let's-get-our-minds-off-of-it-all wine-tasting Party."

We opened Winter Quarter with a "You're a good pledge, Lucy Brown" Party, a Palm Springs Retreat, and a victorious Powderpuff Football Team (Average Height: 5'2"; Average Weight: 110 lbs.)

Planned events for the coming year include a Family Picnic, more Exchanges, an Alumni Tea, a visit from our Vancouver Chapter, our annual Spring Formal, and ten summer weddings.

gamma phi beta

The Hilgard ivory tower was left behind as Gamma Phis entered upon a year of personal awareness, achievements, commitment, and spirit. True Bruin enthusiasm produced a prize-winning skit before the tensely eager Coliseum crowd on November 23rd. The week before efforts turned to crepe paper, chicken wire, and a 1st place trophy! We had our share of Bruin Belles, Sophomore Sweethearts, Shell and Oar, Anchors, and Bruinettes, Gamma Phis worked on UniCamp Board, Tutorial Project, Bruin Week Executive Committee, and the Academic Research Council. The legacy of our two Phi Beta Kappas '68 was perpetuated in Spur's and Chimes' member roles. From every point of view the year looked different - Kathy saw life from the campus in Bordeaux; Kay was honored as a candidate for Young Republican Woman of the Year: Cheryl became one of the ten finalists for Miss UCLA.

But there's more to living and growing than activities that look good in black and white. We broke the ice with faculty members at dinner. Christmas-time we laughed with our Southern-accented Santa, and individually brightened the season for families in Mississippi.

The Year '68-'69 proved to be a memorable one for Kappa Delta as we found ourselves busy with activities, studies, and R.F.'s. We literally plunged into the new school year when the actives and pledges got acquainted with a bar-b-que and swim party at Newport.

The enthusiastic pledges (The Junior Mafia) got into the swing of sorority life with a treasure hunt for Head Start and numerous ditches culminating in a pleasant one-way trip to Albuquerque, New Mexico for a lucky active!

Competing with the quarter system, we still managed to be active on the campus scene by being represented in various organizations such as Angel Flight, Anchors, Bruin Belles, several little sister groups, Uni-Camp, Spurs, Tutorial Project and Shell and Oar.

"A Walk on the Wild Side" would best describe the house social functions for the year as we swung into action at the annual Diamond Dagger and grooved at the pledgeactive party which was held at a warehouse in Long Beach. We celebrated initiation with a fantastic formal at the Pacific Coast Club and ended the year with the Spring-fling. The highlight of the football season was the Dad's Day brunch and game when we saw UCLA beat Stanford and the mothers got into the activities too by donating food for the annual Family Pot-Luck Dinner.

With the onset of summer vacation the KD's are anxious to escape the academic pressures and prepare for another exciting year!

kappa kappa gamma

The Kappas came back to school this fall with the anticipation of another full and rewarding year. It was decided that house activities were especially meaningful when they combined total house participation with service to others. Joining together with the Thetas and the Phi Sig Delts, Kappas helped to earn $2,500 for the Trick or Treat for UNICEF Drive. In the Greek effort to earn donations for Biafra, Kappas also worked hard, while having enough time to sponsor a uni-camper through Unicamp.

Kappas were active in many aspects of campus life: Chimes, Mortar Board, CASE, Bruin Belles, and Fashion Board. The wide spectrum of Kappas ranged from Judy Wood, AWS Woman of the Month, to Gae McElhany, runner-up for Miss UCLA.

Despite a busy schedule of studying, community participation and campus involvement, Kappas had time for intramurals, a winter formal with the SAE's, and professor speakers.

Next year promises to be one of greater involvement, innovation, and genuine concern.

Sunshine and Rain and Music and Smiles delight a Pi Phi...

This year the Pi Phi delight has been spread around a big world. We have had six girls studying in foreign lands while three more worked or travelled abroad . . . and in the air!

At home, UCLA-world too, provides endless haunts for Pi Phi curiosity.

Through the UCLA Hospital-maze wander future nurses, Connie Blair and Pat Howard, Jeanne Wallace will be a doctor . . . For now she's a Varsity Cheer Leader! Also in a land of smiles and sport there are synchronized swimmers and Debbie Rothaus, a Frosh Song Girl, Speaking of songs, Dana Dunn, our Madrigal, makes us beautiful Pi Phi Music. "Most Beautiful," that was our Bruin Week Lawn Float. Of course, our Little Sisters, Spurs, Sophomore Sweethearts, Bruin Belles, Fashion Board, Greek and Bruin Week Committee members make the UCLA world spin.

Back from where the action goes, in a quiet and thoughtful place, UCLA Coloquium felt the sunshine . . . and the rain . . . of Sue Smith and Betsy Kimball. Sue and Bey and friends bewitch our house activities with colors and imagination and make the Sculpture Garden their land of enchantment. Speaking of wizardry, Spring GPA was highest on Hilgard! Activities, honors and fun have highlighted another year for the Sig Delts. Last Spring was truly exciting as SDT's combined with AEPi to carry off the Ma Crandall Memorial Sweepstakes Award at Mardi Gras. Sandi Gaviola was honored as Queen of the event with Sharon Krevitz serving as Princess.

SDT was represented in all phases of campus activities. Linda Goldenberg served as ASUCLA First Vice President and was named AWS Woman of the Month. Lani Yasgoor worked on Bruin Week; and Sherry Frankel and Rhonda Pieter were members of the Mardi Gras executive committee. Sig Delts could be found in all phases of campus organizations: Randy Morrison was AWS secretary-treasurer and Rhonda Pieter served as Intercollegiate Association of Women Students Representative; plus many SDTs could be found in the rosters of Bruin Belles, Bruinettes, Sophomore Sweethearts, Freshman Council, Spurs, Chimes, Prytanean, Communications Board, Mortar Board and Dean's List.

Community-wise, the Los Angeles City Panhellenic honored SDT by presenting them with a silver cup for the highest gpa for any living group at UCLA. This year our philanthropy was reading for the Braille Institute. Our Fall pledge class, the "Sigma-to-me's" worked for the Los Angeles County Heart Association.

Highlights of our social activities included our "Cowboys and Indians" and "Valentines" Parties, and our annual Spring Formal. Intramural softball proved to be fun-filled. This year our successful retreat was held in raindrenched Big Bear, California. Under the leadership of President Sherry Frankel, SDT has truly had an eventful and enriching year.

For the past forty-four years Sigma Kappas have written a paragraph in the yearbook telling about the good times they've had. Well, as you can see from the pictures, lots of fun still fills our times together. This year, however, we'd like to tell about some things these pictures don't show!

One of the girls has been doing volunteer work at the Kennedy Child Study Center and has spent her past two summers counseling at a camp for functionally retarded children. Another volunteered her time to work with psychotic children at Camarillo State Mental Hospital. The sisters of Sigma Kappa, after hearing of her rewarding experience, elected to donate a "jungle-jim" set to the children's ward at the hospital.

The English in Action Program to help foreign students learn our language and feel at home here at UCLA has still another of our sisters involved. Other philanthropical activities to which Sigma Kappas are giving their love and time are the March of Dimes, Operation Head Start, and Bruin AFS. One of our more artistic sisters donated her time to do the costuming for a musical production of the Knox High School students, thereby supporting both the kids' morale and their scholarship fund.

Sigmas are girls who "do their own thing" and share it with each other. Whether it be powder puff football, mountain retreats, parties, or philanthropical work, we strive together for these very rich and rewarding experiences.

WE CAME . . . WE WORKED . . . WE ARE GROWING. The year of recolonization has been hectic for the new girls of Phi Mu. We met the challenge of reworking the house with fresh ideas and enthusiasm. Inside our walls old traditions such as the Haloween Dinner and the Father-Daughter Banquet have been revived. We initiated sensitivity sessions to air our problems and become closer friends.

Phi Mu girls participated in a variety of outside activities such as Bruin Belles, Anchors, Angel Flight, Sabers, Spurs, and as little sisters to Lambda Chi, Phi Kapps, Theta Xi, AEPi and Sigma Chi. We worked on Mardi Gras and UniCamp plus our own philanthropy The Good Ship Hope. Our Chapter ended the year by hosting the Phi Mu State Day and having a Spring formal.

We at Phi Mu think of our house as a People-Puzzle; we are all individuals working, living and learning together as one coherent picture.

Can 50 fraternity brothers find happiness when they are surrounded by more than 1000 sorority women? Well, the Brothers of Acacia, with a little help from their neighbors, sought collective sanctuary within themselves. Their roving eyes were matched only by their wanderlust. Travels included a venture to that titilating southern paradise, Tijuana, a Christmas caravan to Mammoth, and an exciting trip to Berkeley for the All-Cal-Weekender.

Campus interest was not forgotten. Acacia, seeking the light, took first place in two Bruin Week activities; Best Theme for the lawn display and Most Original Skit. After all these activities, Acacia even had enough time to place in the top one third in overall intramurals. With the upcoming parties, Greek Week activites, and exchanges, the fastest growing fraternity on the UCLA campus is looking forward to an enjoyable and rewarding year.

We are looking forward to our 6th straight Mardi Gras sweepstakes trophy for the House of Horrors. This year it was done in conjunction with Sigma Delta Tau.

Brothers active on campus include Harold Moskovitz, IFC Judicial Representative and Chairman of Greek Week; Arnold Kaminsky, Chairman of ASUCLA Communications Board; Mark Goodman, Daily Bruin City Editor; and Steve Adler, Mardi Gras Executive Committee.

The brothers wound up their winter social season with the Winter Formal at the Windjammer Restaurant and the crowning of our new sweetheart Miss Janis Blumkin.

Ann Stiles, Kappa Alpha Theta, was chosen our 1968-69 Calendar Queen and was crowned by Troy Donahue. She appeared on the cover of our 2nd annual school calender with 13 other girls as the princesses for each month.

Unique among the Greek organizations is Alpha Gamma Omega. Founded at UCLA in 1927, AGO is the only national social fraternity whose goals are Christ-centered. AGO offers the basis for fellowship so essential to spiritual growth on the university campus while also providing a wide variety of social and athletic activities.

AGO had an excellent year filled with memorable experiences. High Sierra pack trips, Little Sister fellowships, banquets, football game after-parties, intramural competition (1968 All-Fraternity Soccer Championship), and community service projects enriched the calendar. A weekend retreat with ADX Sorority and Mardi Gras participation added to the fun, while our traditional Senior Banquet and Luau closed out the year in style. Yet all of the action didn't seem to thwart the studies, as AGO retained its very high scholastic ranking.

Ask any brother, though, and he will tell you that the most valuable benefits he received from AGO lies in the warm brotherhood which creates lasting friendships, provides opportunity for a personal evaluation of one's faith, therefore making the university experience complete and meaningful.

In the tradition of Delta Sigma Phi, the past year started out in style with our tri-annual beer bust. Lazio, our cook, helped tremendously in keeping up the fine tradition.

Through the past year we rocked out at Lionell Barrymore's pad for our annual Carnation Ball. As the weeks followed, a Boxer Shorts rebellion arose with the Delts. But, our zaniest function of the year was the tradition Sailor's Ball which left many a Delta Sig happy and invigorated.

It was a great year, and the next one hopes to be better!

Again the ATO's led in unprecedented campus social acitvities. Unfortunately though, the homecoming roof display, done with our typical tongue-in-cheek humor, was disqualified because of lighting techniques. We were, however, awarded four weeks at IFC's Camp for Wayward Degenerates.

The Mad Dykstra Sniper, angered because he wasn't invited to the annual ATO sponsored "Take a Dormie to Lunch" banquet at the Midnight Mission, continued his siege of the House. The score now stands at one dormie evicted and six brothers suffering from pot shots.

The football team recovered from last year's groin' pains and had an exceptional season. The block sliding team had a perilous time due to the unusually large number of cracks in the streets this year.

Individual achievement reached a climax when Pete Robb was chosen for D.I.L.D.O. (Development of Institutional Leadership and Departmental Organization), sponsored by a nationally known mercant's guild. Saltzman and Warren were awarded the H. Molly Memorial Trophy for their efforts in the two-man tag team competition.

Y.O.M.F. Heidleberg was a ball for the brothers and their dates; the Jolly Green Giant did his thing on the house; and Chung gave back the Pueblo. As it looks now, the ATO's will end this '69 with a bang.

beta theta pi

This year Beta's were blessed with the return of an old Master-Beta, the worthless Perry Pompador, who now, as in the past, twangs the heart strings of many a UCLA coed. The exuberance over the Pompador's triumphant return was offset by the untimely departure of our long established travel agent, Rotten Ryan's Travel Agency, which specializes in travel by rail, reached new highs this year. Single-handedly, the venereable (sic.) Ryan turned 581 into Grand Central Station. Mike's powerful locomotives did an excellent job of keeping the trains coming regularly. Rarely was a member of one of the long passenger lines disappointed. His all-star group of engineers include such notables as the Tuna, Rasty Judy, Ideal Idell, Mazola Michele, and the Dynamic Duo.

In an attempt to shape up sorority row, this fall's pledge class initiated a new figure control program with the Kappa pledges volunteering to participate in the premiere session. After a brief workout these athletes were laxxed into eating our chocolate cake topped with hand-whipped cream (a special recipe prepared by our gourmet chef, Big George). Also, in a search of the forementioned row, we found our Baby Chipmunk's nuts at the AXO house. In an attempt to atone for their crime (against nature), they invited the Beta's over for cake and punch. Their entertainment began with singing and ended with humming.

As usual, the major highlight of the year was the Beta Weekender. The trip started off with weather ideally suited for skiing; the casualty toll revealed one broken leg and several stiff. Due to heavy snowing that night, Beta activity turned from skiing to snowballing, a much more productive sport.

In keeping with tradition we will conclude this resume with the selection of the outstanding '69 Beta . . .

"This is Delt Country" echoed across campus in 1968-69 as the hibernating Delts resurrected the quiet traditions of rape, violence, prejudice, and thievery. As our social chairman put it: "If we can't afford exchanges, we may as well have a police record."

Fall rush brought a pledge class totally in tune with the ancient customs at 649 Gayleyobsessed with ditching, samming, dropping trow and hazing actives.

The polite little women from the Mount came to exchange, but went down in a baptism of Busch.

The Chi O's donated their Christmas tree to the Delt Breaking-and-Entering Team (as did Thetas, D.G.'s, and Gamma Phi's). With some regret, the Hilgard lovelies received cold showers and blue sisters, Delts got ornaments, Jena's bird, and unicops.

The Turkeys of Minerva donated beer bottles; Delts rinsed them down the Gayley gutter.

When the New Year almost washed Mandeville Canyon into the Pacific, the men of the purple and gold turned out in force to stem the mud. But in spite of our gallantry, the French Apache, the Delt tree lot, an unlicensed sale of Coyote underwear, prejudice against Polaks, and the incomperable All-Delt Weekend blossomed into impromptu Delt-LAPD exchanges.

All in all, the row's largest winter pledge class meant more strength, the alums meant money, the little sisters meant well, pinnings meant Jack Daniels, the LAPD meant business, the officers meant nothing, and Delts meant brotherhood.

UCLA was Delt Country in '69!

With the turning over of the new leaf and advent of the new "smooth" image here at the FIJI house, (soon to be recognized officially as Folsom Prison Trusteeship Extension), the brothers have accepted a rather shakey truce with the world about us. This truce is the result of our insincere de-emphasis of world conquest through the means of sin, vice and perversion.

While the bros have been taking part in the new student activist movement in areas of dire importance to the improvement of our society, as mentioned above, they have of course met their responsibilities, duties and obligations to future posterity by keeping alive the traditional taste, discretion, and scent of humor prevalent at any "FIJI" function.

Thus, as expected, highly successful social activities have marred the new smooth era of this year which has been more accurately described as a "Renaissance of Unacceptability."

The traditional (?) "Grape Stomp" party was held in honor of the viligance of the Delano grape pickers. The theme for this fun-raising party was thusly rather appropriate – 'Pick Your Nose-Not Grapes' – . It was truly a smooth function as three girls were graped and numerous others were introduced to a uniquely 'FIJI' fermentation process.

The pledges had a tremendously successful ditch with an assortment of Pi-Phi pledges and refugees from the nymphomaniac ward over at the med-center. The outing was held at the LA County ZOO out at Griffith Park. The brothers are still awaiting the release of one of our fellow Fiji's from the zoo. It seems as though a zoologist and an anthropoligist from the zoo trapped our dear bro while he was engaged in a coitial undertaking of no small measure with one of the zoo's female gorillas whom he had reportedly mistaken for one of the Pi-Phi pledges. As it stands now, he is still in custody and has been classified as the "missing link" in modern evolutionary theory. This ditch has since been labled the 'Grovel of The Century.' It did manage to strain our sorority relations which up to that point were blossoming. Pan-Hellenic voted 22-1 to boycott us which is quite an accomplishment and show of self sacrifice on their part. IFC also decided to do us a similar favor and placed us on social probation for the entire winter quarter just to keep us out of trouble.

The Brothers of Phi Gamma Delta shall surely fondly look back upon this year as one of Social Prohibition – Not Inhibition!

What can you say about that which has been your home, and about those who have been your brothers? Phi Sig has been a great home to all of us and we find it easy to praise, for it has given us all many experiences and has permitted us to develop and grow in our own ways. But, we haven't forgotten that our fraternity has a goal, a constantly changing goal, towards which we have to constantly strive – Brotherhood.

On the lighter side of things, we find ourselves always active in University activities. Led by two Fraters who both received our House's best athlete award, our varsity teams in baseball and football made the playoffs. Unfortunately, we had bad games and could go no further.

In addition, this past Halloween, our housedid something rather unusual in University circles. Instead of throwing eggs or asking for candy, our house, in conjunction with Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Kappa Alpha Theta, collected over $2400 for what we all consider a good cause– the bank account of Phi Sigma Delta. Actually the money went to UNICEF and it made many people very happy.

Scholastically we again found ourselves ranking among the top three fraternities in overall GPA, and at the end of last school year, we had three Fraters who were accepted to Phi Beta Kappa.

Eurelnic, a medical rarity . . . took its perverted toll this year on several of the Bros. – Phil Fonfara, Drew Sones and Geoff Duncan were the first to succumb.

The two major awards of the year are still being contested, the Black Toilet Seat (grossest date of the year) and the traditional Brown Helmet (obvious). I predict Tim Kelly to win the former and White Bird to take the latter.

My sincere thanks to the Little Sisters (beautiful, gracious, and considerate ladies) for bagging my underwear.

Next year the house will be sealed and filled with water to accomodate our fishes and Oscar.

Jeff Oderman is a cradle robber; Drew Sones, Dan Downing, Wayne Holland, Frey Heath, Howard Shemp and Jim Kaufman are all very much whipped; the rest of us are horney; Oscar ate Dan Marter; Mike Buscher and Geoff Groat are racing their hawgs at Ascot; Terry Zamanigan glued Bill Frank's mouth shut with Dental Alginate; Paul Bickenbach took a little ride with the pledges and can't get back from Catalina (he can't swim); and Mike Dorsey found out what a prophylactic is.

Sigma Alpha Mu in the past year has excelled in academics and has also had a very full social calender. In the last year we have had two overnight formals, one at Lake Arrowhead and one at Laguna. Our other social events included our annual SAM cowboys and Indians orgy. It was a ball! We also had three stags for members of our house who were getting married. Another ball was had by all! Along with our social calendar everyone in Sigma Alpha Mu knows they must keep their grades up. Our house G.P.A. for last year and the first quarter of this year was 2.81

Our house has also been active in athletics. Our teams excelled in all sports and we hope to be at the top by the end of the year.

We have also had very good rushes and we have many young, promising fratres to carry on the great traditions of Sigma Alpha Mu.

Sigma Chi's erupted to a climax in '69 style. Delnaro proved a stalwart on the basketball team, Louise helped Dave's roommate Dave to a first. The Arizona Sigs provided verbal spice at the Harem Party and the fog finally cleared over the Pledge Party. The Freak moved in during Christmas and promptly burned everybody's reg packets-much to Norton's dismay. Crowd stayed sober long enough to patch the holes in the walls. Rich and Gary are going to bed earlier but getting less rest and Tys and Bert are eager to follow in their footsteps. Tim and Wade had a contest with each other to see who could get the best room and wardrobe. Bennie stayed ahead, and the White Night stayed up. sigma nu

The Brothers of Sigma Nu were busy at work this year in an attempt to take advantage of the opportunities this campus has to offer. Activities commenced with a successful fall rush which resulted in the largest pledge class on the Row. After the dust had settled from the Fall Bid Nite Dinner the final box score read:

- 28 stitches
- 1 broken watch
- 21 Excedrin headaches
- 0 hairs

Academically we again found ourselves in good standing with an overall G.P.A. well above the all-University average. Sigma Nu continued to excel in intramurals, winning all-U titles in golf, cross-country, the Fraternity Invitational basketball tournament and going to the finals of all-U football.

The House also kept active this year with a successful Big Sister Program. The girls treated us to Sunday breakfasts and a surprise pre-Halloween meal which included cheese, flour, and shaving cream on the menu. (We returned the favor!) They also threw a Christmas party with tree, presents, cookies and all. Whoopie!

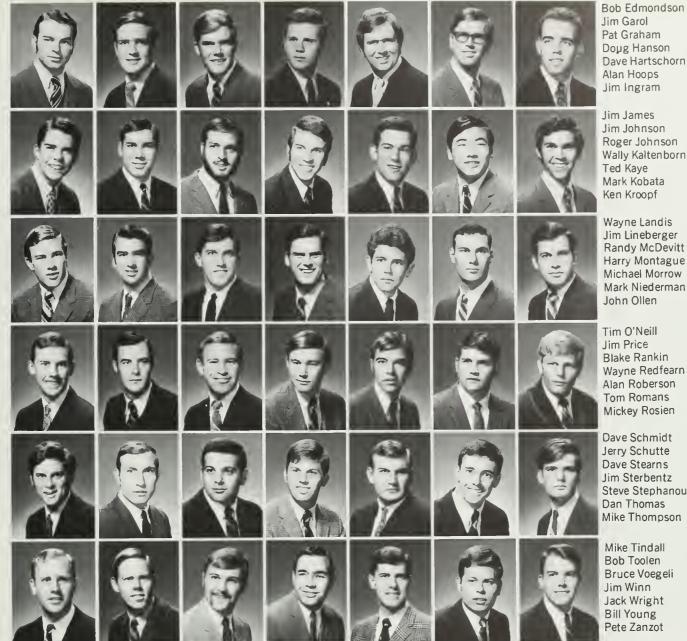

Theme parties and exchanges were stylish affairs. The active Social Calendar was highlighted by the White Rose Formal and climaxed by the annual Weekender in San Diego.

Aside from these distractions: Nite Skool, Fran, Go-Carts, Nickel Beers, the New Year's Party, the return of Sterbo, Camarella, Drapes, Prince, and marathon card games contributed to a highly productive year at Sigma Nu.

sigma pi

This year has left the usual scars upon the minds and bodies of the men of Sigma Pi.

Our annual Pajama Party, areal bang-up, blowup job, was so satisfying that the chapter voted 36-1 to bronze the social chairman in order to commemorate the event.

The Sig Pi's, with the awkward but exuberant help of a 16-man pledge class, placed 3rd in all-fraternity athletic competition. But due to another computer failure the Dean of men reported our GPA as 1.95 and placed the house on scholastic probation. Consequently our real GPA of 3.69 went unrewarded.

Our Little Sister Organization once again surrendered themselves to the will of the chapter; serving us breakfast in bed and polishing our furnishings.

Several bawdy wenches tricked brothers into pinnings and engagements, but those of us who survived these social diseases look anxiously towards another year at UCLA.

theta delta chi

Despite the advent of socially acceptable pledges, the Theta Delts managed to uphold their Campus Community status rating through yet another year. Contributing to this was the house-wide blood drive, continued intramural standing, and the donation of a Ciodras Diodora tree to the University.

Gracing the overall picture (which for unmentioned reasons cannot appear) were the Little Sisters, led on by Red Carnation Queen Sherry McLaren (Delta Gamma).

Concerning social gatherings, there was an event aptly termed the "8-Way" at which Greek society was well-represented. This matched with the yearly "Virgin Islander" kept the house to a strict party line.

But even with all these memories crowding their brains, who could forget the long midnight conversations with Hank the Hermit?

And our grades-Theta Xi maintained a 2.75 this year, with three brothers over a 4.0. (Guffaw, he says.)

And activities–Mardi Gras, Greek Week–nothing spectacular, just enough to get us out of bed.

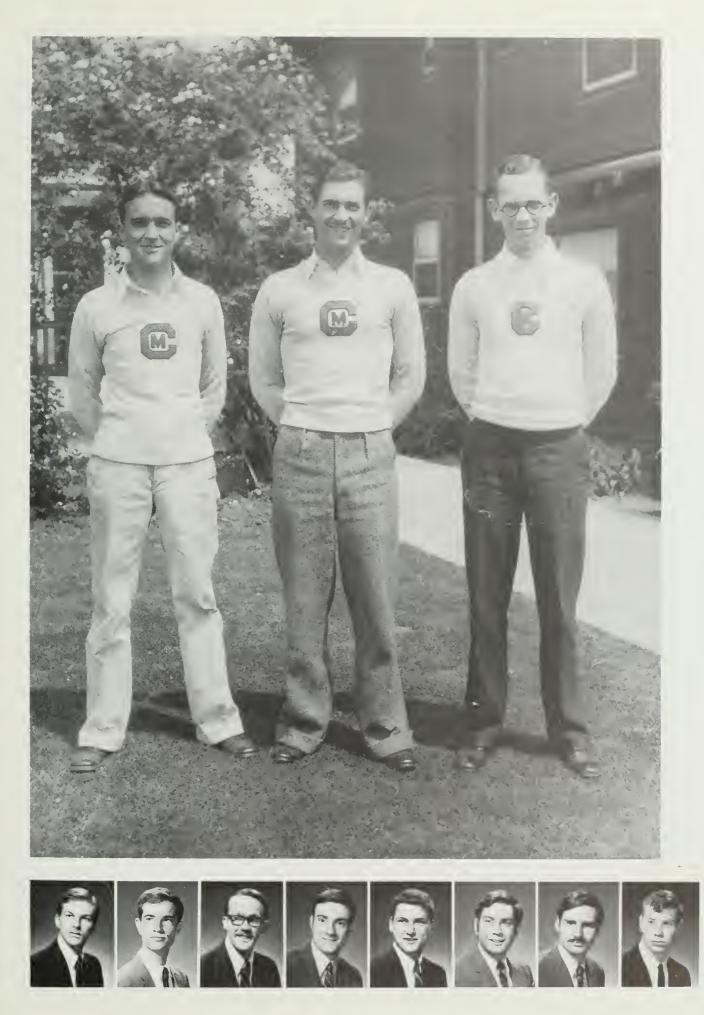

And individuals-After we elected Hooper president, he got shipped off to India (courtesy of the NROTC).

And intramurals-Once again we excelled, proving we still have that great ball-playing ability.

And little sisters - We do a lot with them.

Triangle started 1969 with a starvation endurance run as we lacked a cook for a week. As our strength grew, the house was exposed to an educational series of 13 flicks in which only the most debased remained. As Triangle slowly became a world power with our largest rooting section in years, Triangle beat all comers both on and off the athletic field as we finished among the top quarter in the All-Fraternity Intramurals.

Undaunted by our athletic activities, we highlighted our social calendar with many exchanges, our P.J. party, the annual Spring formal aboard the US Princess, and another very successful Mardi Gras as we won the Queen's and Mask Trophy with our "Bang away, Really put your arm into it" bottle bang booth.

This year, as in every year for over a century, we honor brothers in the house with various special awards. This year we are giving the "Brother Scott Bryan Garbage Mouth of the Year" Award to the famous comedy team of Cyr and Hoffman for their fantastic dialogue at our booth at the 1968 Mardi Gras.

All of these activities failed to dwindle our scholastic record but was certainly hard on every thing else. We ended the year in utter exhaustion and innumerable neurosis. The Triangle brotherhood, nevertheless, ended another most stimulating and successful year, nineteen sixty-nine

a new direction

for the greeks

As with all organizations with long histories, fraternities have grown and changed at UCLA. A look at the 1924 edition of Southern Campus reveals the predominance of greek oriented and greek organized social events on and off campus. Up to the 1950's it was almost unheard of to elect a non-greek student body president. All of the big athletes, the people admired on campus, those who led the followers were associated with the greeks. However the coming and the subsequent acceptance of the unattached activist to the now-huge campus has, among other things, reduced both the desirability and the stature of the greek system. It is still seen by many as just a legitimization for drinking wenching and "RFing." The fraternities at UCLA have in 1969 finally risen to the challenge. In backing and actively contributing to a university administered study of fraternities on campus, the IFC has promoted discussion of many of the reviews and suggestions needed for the rehabilitation of the fraternity system at this campus.

Greek Week 1969, in essence a large scale community service project, has accentuated the belief among the greek community that the fraternities must orient themselves toward community service. Surely this is a sound retort to the liberal-minded group of campus activists and their cry of "white establishment" so often hurled at fraternity row. The possibility of activating a single house to the ends of community service has been demonstrated by a large number of traditional and newer service and philanthropic projects. The Fijis annual Christmas party for the orphans of Nazareth House, the winter flood's sandbagging by the DTD's and the AGO involvement in camp for the Junior Blind are the beginning of a long list of recreational and fund raising activities in which almost every house in involved at some time during the year. But caution is the password now, lest the service project become a hypocritical self-justification. The project must become more than a semi-annual, soothing public relations gesture to the community, an amends for 12 months of hell-raising. The IFC, following the study of the greek system, cannot simply impose. What is needed is a new spirit and an effective implementation of these ideals. Each house, and especially each individual, must create its own updated and purposeful spirit of brotherhood. Among the ideas that the campus community has expressed about the greek system is that of not allowing room for individual growth within the house; instead each member is pressed out of the same mould. Surely one of the great advantages of greek living is the exposure that students could derive from a broader range of different people. This will probably be one of its greatest assets in its new direction.

The spirit of fall rush 1969 and subsequent activities of the greeks may determine the new direction of this group if there is to be a change. The leaders of IFC and each house are trying to communicate their ideas to the body of the fraternity members. It is encouraging to the campus community as a whole to see these men no longer satisfied by the rewards of an occasional philanthropic action or service project.

Whether the fraternity at UCLA is to become a basically service-oriented social unit is not yet determined. In the minds of those trying to better the greek system at UCLA, the basic question still remains; can the greeks transform the ideals expressed at a meeting into a way of life in which all members hold a true and positive belief or will these ideals expressed in 1969 lapse again, as before, into sporadic efforts of compensation for the average conduct of the whole fraternity row?

STEPHENS-HOUSE

ASHER HOUSE

This was the first year for Asher House coeducational living group for Christian Scientists at UCLA. Suitcases and boxes replaced paintbrushes and hammers as the original eighteen moved in. The first quarter was highlighted by a Halloween costume party and an Oriental theme party given by Prospective members to Actives. The second quarter followed with an Asher Film Festival given by the men, and a Valentine's Day hayride.

Asherites have participated in Rally Committee, Mardi Gras, Monte Carlo, Varsity soccer, A Cappella Choir, the Christian Science Organization, and Alpha Kappa Psi.

So here we are, Merkie Marilyn and Lady Lou wreaking havoc in the artist's quarters, Caroling Carol and Dingle-berry Diana luring unsuspecting men to their windows, Mama Cass and that floppy hat, Soc-it-to-me-Sharon missing all her eight o'clocks, Richie's Andy sleeping through her twelve o'clocks.

Then there's Director Dave's mad love affair with Bridgett, Lord Nelson King of the slopes, Davie Baby looks alike, Etiquette taught by Dandy Don, cement mixed by Laboring Leonard, All-American Guff Guff, Hey Joe, you just got a letter from the Daughters of Zanzibar, Chatty Kathy official chauffeur, Gorgeous Gail blushing in the pink room, Pepsi guzzling Bubbling Bobbie. Rob sends peace to the world, bye bye GoodBy. P.S. We love you Mom Grill.

organizations

AXE is a professional chemistry fraternity located deep in the basement of the chemistry building. Future expansion plans depend on the sale of our homemade LSD. The THC (synthetic pot) sales were disappointing since most of the money was used to bribe the hierarchy. Highlights of last year included an Executive trophy for Mardi Gras and a Blood Battle in a football game with the chemistry faculty which ended in a zero-zero tie. Our free chem tutoring could not quite rival the Italian Department's, but as long as the Daily Bruin does not expose us, play "stump the tutor" will continue.

Life in chemistry is full of fun . . . and games.

angel flight

Angel Flight is the women's auxiliary to the AFROTC on the UCLA campus. As one of approximately 140 nationally affiliated Angel Flights, we serve the Air Force, the AFROTC, the University and the community. Most of our activities are coordinated with the Arnold Air Society, the honor group of cadets. Our projects have included a visit to Norton Air Force Base to welcome backveterans from Vietnam, picnics at Griffith Park for underprivileged and orphan children, donation of blood in response to an emergency call by the Red Cross, washing airplanes as a fundraising project, and a spaghetti dinner for the Air Force, we hostess for various Air Force business functions on the campus. An example of this service is the reception for foreign Air Force officers who occasionally visit UCLA when they have a break in the technical training they receive from the USAF. After drill on Tuesdays, the Angels have a coffee hour for the cadets.

Angel Flight also participates in campus activities such as Bruin Week and Mardi Gras. There are numerous occasions for social events with the members of the Arnold Air Society. Angel Flight takes pledges twice a year, and during the course of rush, pledging, and initiation, many varied social events arise. A National Conclave is held once a year in a major U.S. city. Representatives from Angel Flights and Arnold Air Societies across the nation meet for one week, this year in New Orleans. This provides an invaluable opportunity to meet people and exchange ideas, as well as to have a good time.

alpha kappa psi

Alpha Kappa Psi, the oldest and largest professional business fraternity in the nation has had another active year in preparing its brothers to take a dynamic and vital role in the community at large. Alpha Kappa Psi was founded at New York University in 1904 and our chapter at U.C.L.A. was chartered in 1926.

In 1968-69 under the leadership of Michael Waechter-Roger Fox and Edgar Stuart-Alan Sachs some of our activities have included participation in Mardi Gras where we received first place for publicity with the help of beautiful playmate Gwen Wong.

The fall quarter saw the largest pledge class ever to be initiated into our chapter. This pledge class filled the vacuum left by our graduating brothers of 1968.

Valentines Day 1969, normally a day honoring pretty ladies saw us doing that as we crowned Catalina Valenica as our queen surrounded by her lovely court.

On February 4, 1969 we were proud to present the "Faculty Award for Distinguished Service" to Dean George Robbins, G.B.A. On April 18, 1969 and May 29, 1969. Mr. Bernard F. Kamins and Chancellor Charles Young respectively, were initiated as honorary members.

bruin belles

Bruin Belles are UCLA's official hostesses. Their many activities this year have included work with many aspects of campus life. Football recruitment and hostessing visiting football teams for the Athletic Department is always more fun than work. Other activities such as providing tours for the Royal Shakesperian Company provided an unusal cultural experience for many members. Participation in Fast for Freedom for Biafra proved most rewarding for everyone. UCLA's Open House and College Student for a Day are much enjoyed events in the Fall. This year's involvement with Blue Key in Mardi Gras along with hostessing the Australian Rugby Team for their visit to UCLA all help to keep these girls very busy.

chi alpha delta

The Chi Alpha Delta sisterhood activiated its 40th year of tradition under the leadership of President, Joyce Nishinaga. Welcoming eighteen new pledges in the fall, the Chi's proceeded to the annual Pledge Presentation at the Marina del Rey Hotel, Christmas Dance at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, and Formal Initiation at the Dorothy Chandler Music Center. The girls also participated actively in various service projects both on and off campus contributing funds to the physically handicapped and Unicamp. Enthusiastically working together in this busy schedule of service and social activities, the Chi Alpha Delta sorority experienced another successful year to remember.

Clad in gold sweaters and skirts, Chimes experienced another exciting year by selling "Ding SC" cow bells for the UCLA-USC football game to promote spirit and by organizing licorice sales to boost funds. Chimes new project for the year, providing child care and giving parties at the International Students' Center for foreign students' children, was well received and enjoyed by all. Participation in traditional service projects - the UCLA Open House, the Uni-Camper Spring Drive, the Uni-Camper Museum Trip, and the Women's Week Ice Cream Sundae sale were supported enthusiastically under the leadership of President Jane Meier, Vice President Judy Lissner, Secretary Evy McNitt, Treasurer Beth Johannsen, and Historian Nancy Mozur.

christain science organization

The Christian Science Organization provides an opportunity for students of Christian Science to share their religion with the university public. Christian Science scientifically explains to this age the way to experience the all-embracing care of God. Students of Christian Science join in order to share experience and draw support from the application of the teachings of the religion. The building is open for regularly scheduled testimony meetings, and for the study of the Bible and the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

This year has been an active one for Phrateres. The blood drive and ASUCLA Open House began a fun-filled year of service and social activities.

Phrateres saw many successful events. Among them were the Swap-a-pop sucker sale, a mother-daughter luncheon, a Bruin Week skit which received second prize, a snatch breakfast for the pledges, and a father-daughter brunch. The highlights of the year were the winter formal initiation banquet held at the Continental Hyatt House and the spring informal initiation luncheon. Also, a regional convention of Phrateres was held at UC Santa Barbara.

In serving UCLA and helping Uni-Camp, Phrateres has participated in Journalism Day, has worked as hostesses for Monte Carlo Nite, and has operated the pizza booth for Mardi Gras. Community projects are also a part of Phrateres activities. Is it any wonder our motto is "FAMOUS FOR FRIENDLINESS!"

nisei bruin club

The Nisei Bruin Club year got off to a flying start, opening with Frosh reception. Due to unusual circumstances, the election of officers which was to be held before summer, was held at the beginning of the Fall Quarter. The results of the election saw Gary Furuno as head of the "heads". However, despite such a disadvantage, NBC had a great year.

Stressed on this year's agenda was more school participation and a better opportunity to get to know other club members. NBC's activities more than meet these goals.

NBC also didn't do badly in Intramural sports. Being quite all around athletically, NBC placed three coed teams in the All "U" quarter-finals for volleyball with two of them advancing to the semi-finals. In basketball, NBC also had two strong team contenders in All "U", with team member Glenn Osajima setting the school Intramural record for freethrows with 49 out of 50. NBC also made a good showing in football and swimming.

Other outstanding activities included a bowling league, a hayride, parties, Cal-weekend, open dances, barbeques, hootenannys, and just plain fun get-togethers.

Participating in two of the school's major events, Homecoming and Mardi Gras, NBC was phenomenal. Entering a float for only the second year, NBC cropped the "Most Original" trophy as well as the "Queen's Favorite" trophy, with much of the work load going on Carole Doiwchi, float chairman, and Doug Aihara. At Mardi Gras, NBC upholding their winning tradition cropped "Best Game" booth for the third year in a row.

Sabers, the women's hostess group to the Army R.O.T.C., came back in the fall under the able leadership of President Phyllis Cascade. First on the agenda the group redesigned their uniforms. Next they undertook their main project for the year-a trip up to San Francisco's Lettermen General hospital to visit the wounded G.I.'s. To raise money for the trip, they sold candy. While up there the Sabers took in some of the sights of the city. Some events of the past year included a beer bust, a brigade party, and a picnic. Late in February, Sabers held their annual review at which time awards were given out for service and Anna Drumlewicz was installed as president. The highlight of the year was a Military Ball held in conjunction with Air Force and Navy R.O.T.C. at Long Beach Naval Base.

Sophomore Sweethearts have made themselves known on campus again this year. As a service group to the university, the girls enthusiastically participated by hostessing events such as Open House, Bruin Week, Monte Carlo Nite and Mardi Gras. The Sweethearts also co-sponsored an Easter party for underprivileged children, along with the Community Service Commissioner and Tutorial. A successful candy sale helped raise funds for the group. As a spirit organization, Sophomore Sweethearts were equally energetic in supporting UCLA's No. 1 water polo team and swim team. In their distinct blue and gold outfits, the girls cheered at games and meets, provided refreshments presented banners to the teams, and hostessed at the Pacific-8 Swimming Finals. An exchange with the teams proved quite entertaining for all involved. Enthusiasm and spirit promoted a successful vear for Sophomore Sweethearts.

theta kappa phi

The Theta Kappa Phi sorority is a relatively new one on the UCLA campus, having been founded in 1956 by 11 valiant Oriental coeds. Mrs. Rex P. Enochs has been an enthusiastic and sympathetic advisor for the past 12 years and is now retiring from her post. The imprint of her generosity and warmth will never diminish for those girls fortunate enough to have worked with her. For the most part the basic concerns of the Thetas have been social and scholastic. However, under the competent guidance of their sponsors, Dr. and Mrs. Kinsman, the members are directing more energy toward cultural and campus activities.

SOUTHERN CAMPUS YEARBOOK IS AN ANNUAL PUBLICATION OF THE ASUCLA COMMUNICATION BOARD

In October this editor, returning from a year of study in Europe, returned to UCLA laden with dreams. Dreams of a magnificent graphic work worthy of its place among the 50th anniversary publications of the university. This was going to be a volume filled with controversial interviews, in-depth editorials and probing journalism about the events of the year. If you the reader, have pored through it now, you see that it falls short of this. Unluckily the yearbook has a certoin number of inherent handicaps; it is made with and about people; people who miss appointments; retract statements etc. and it only comes out in June six months after the first deadline. We are proud of our product. Ann and I feel that it is quite an improvement over the one we did two years ago. We also believe that you can do better, Kristo, if all goes well. Danny, thank you for your lastquarter-thot-l'm-working-this-hard labors. As we finish the book, we realize that it wouldn't have come out without those hours of hard work. That doesn't mean we're forgetting all your groundwork Pat; and we thank you for it. Vicki, all our good thoughts for the indexing when it counted. Al ond Lane, I'm sorry we couldn't have four-hundred pages of color and good words. And lost but not least, thank you Steve, for your art work and especially for the friend next door.

Many People not on the yearbook staff contribute heavily to the effort required to put out o 416-page book. Our thanks to the photo department, especially to Stan who got me into this whole thing and Norm who kept me gaing all through the year with his superb work. Our thanks to Craig and Al who came down from the third floor to solve problems and suggest solutions every time we called. Frank, your portrait work was on time this year, and I'd bet we could get it early next year. Art, I left a madhause in '67, and now Socam has no reason to complain about typesetting today. And to all the people who came in to keep us sane, Zero, Ox, John, Andy, thank you. April 25, 1969
